http://www.indiegogo.com/projects/a-co-op-dungeon-crawler-like-bloodwych/x/1671886?c=home

Hello,

I'm trying to raise funds for a remake of the classic co-op dungeon crawler "Bloodwych", which was released in 1989/1990 for ATARI ST, AMIGA, PC, Amstrad CPC, C64 and Spectrum.

I liked this game very much and since "Legend of Grimrock", a remake of games like "Dungeon Master" has been rather successful last year, I think it's time for a dungeon crawler with a co-op-mode.

We want pay programmers for doing an Android (cell phone, Ouya and tablet), an iOS (iPad and iPhone) and a Windows PC version. There will also be a boxed version (of the PC version) for donors, who donate more than $10 and a special edition plus level editor for donors, who donate $20 or more.

I thought this might be interesting for gamers, who played the original Bloodwych and its data disk in the 80s/early 90s.

This is my first campaign on Indiegogo, so I may not do anything right, but I promise to try as long as possible to get a Bloodwych remake done.

If you are interested, you could support this project. We are trying to get in contact with the copyright-holders, so that we can pay them and call the game "Bloodwych". If this isn't possible, the game will get another name and will be a look-alike, a clone, just as "Legend of Grimrock" is a "Dungeon Master" or "Eye of the Beholder" - lookalike.

If you have any suggestions, please let me know. My email-address is bobbygehtheim@yahoo.de, I'm a programmer myself and known as "Lord Chaos" in the ATARI - scene.

I'm located in Nuernberg, Germany and I'm looking for programmers, who could do Android, iOS and PC (Windows) versions of the "Bloodwych" - remake.

Thimo

Hi all

Due to a recent move, oh yes and got married (or is it marred) last September, i dont have the space for a ton of software... well approx 24 collapsible crates (and there the ones that i've managed to test) I will be listing them all on ebay (and making ebay a ton of money).

I do still have some rare hardware, genlock, eprom programmer, sound samplers, cant remember them all. About 20 ST's including the first one (external everything).

My ebay id is stevetheatarian willing to swap/part ex for eiffel interface, ultra satan..

Mmmh, the taste and smell of heated up 'Lasagne Al Verde' comes up into my mind when thinking to the times when I played Bloodwych. Murlock Darkheart, Ulrich Sternaxe, Hengist Meldanash, the/my 4th hero I forgot by name... a Ninja.

Food was always scarce in the dungeons. I had a trick: While fighting an enemy you could start a conversation and the monster sells you a bitten apple for a gold piece (2 bites left on the apple) from time to time, depending to the sort of monster....
In some cases you could buy repeatedly bitten apples. I remember huge spiders were good for that (But nasty melee opponents. That kind of shopping was always a bit risky.), the rest of the conversation I dealt with bow and arrows from the distance ;-)

Best Regards,

Daniel Mandic

Hi,

while the atari.org news article is pending, I'll give it a try here, too: =
I've come back to my forgotten child, mxPlay.

Except the boring stuff (bugfixes) I guess the most interesting one is this=
: the player supports asap (http://asap.sourceforge.net) and xmp (http://xm= p.sourceforge.net) replay routines what makes it the most feature rich play= er Atari has ever seen since the times of Cream's Jam player ;-)

It comes with a prize, both are 060/FireBee/ARAnyM only. On the brighter si= de, it's probably the first replay routine for MODs (etc..) files which is = completely hardware independent, 100% XBIOS and interrupt-free stuff.

But, to make happy also the rest of Falcon fans, there are some 030 plugins= included, too. For example MGT or GT2 is always nice to have with playlist=
, you can take modules from Just Musix 4 and listen to them in a multitaski= ng OS.

Dear Atari users,

EmuTOS 0.9.0 has been released.

The main features are:
- Support for real Falcon 030 with EmuTOS-RAM
- Support for Amiga hardware
- Internal IDE driver enabled by default

See the full changes there:
http://sourceforge.net/p/emutos/news/

And download your preferred binary archive there:
http://sourceforge.net/projects/emutos/files/emutos/0.9.0/

Enjoy!

Wonder if we could hook up one of those 3D printers to CAD 3D 2.0, and things like CyberSculpt?

There were alot of detailed CAD stuff around early for the Atari STs, STEs.

I've not had any of my Atari equipment set up and running since 2004.
I'm finally in the process of setting up my Hades 060.

In 2004, I also had a TT030, which I've since given away to a friend that had a TT failure. I had this SLM 804 attached to the TT.

Is there any way to attach the SLM 804 to the Hades via some kind of adapter?

Thanks.

:-)

After analyzing the coat and its association with the graphics optimization, someone may increase the maintenance of the graphics separately;
why did you detail the coat design as well as the graphics facilities management?

it should be interesting to integrate the data analysis of the graphics with great care; could you explain how to detail the coat management as well as the concept of the graphics outsourcing?

Most artists make the greatest number of changes at the start of a drawing.

 If you get the correct relationship between the eyes, nose and mouth, you will end up with a good likeness.

This group use to really be something.

Where's the best places to hookup for some interesting Atari ST/STE/Falcon discussion.

Also, would like to converse with other Falcon owners who use there systems for D2D Recording.

You can try this:

http://www.atari-forum.com/

or this one:

http://www.atariage.com/forums/forum/20-atari-sttt-computers/and eventually this one, but not really dedicated to general discussions around the Atari:

http://dhs.nu/bbs-scene/

I am after the above if someone has one they don't use, I would be very grateful. eBay me direct at steve@atari.org.uk

If I've got something you want and want to do away with money and swap, I have some gear on eBay, just finishing testing 2 more crates and more software will be listed.

Hi,

ARAnyM <http://aranym.org/> is the GNU/GPL ATARI Virtual Machine from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is modified with the new releases of zView 1.0 and EmuTOS 0.9.0. It supports :

`Run_win` allows launching on PC with Windows
`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with OS X
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with OS X
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh-PC-PlayStation3 are all supported with Windows,
OS X and GNU/Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is running on any machine.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

Looks like at least some of the Gameboy Games were ported. Might be for the Atari Falcon, but still, worth a peek.

     Exactly!
     It comes with a "runtime" program that allows you to diffuse your work.

The ATARI bookmarks page <http://eureka.atari.org/atari.html> was updated. The goal consists in valid links, even if it corresponds to sometimes dated information. Part of these bookmarks persist since the creation of the WEB site, back to the year 1996.

The interest with those numerous bookmarks, there's about 800, is to constitute an ATARI uptodate and dedicated search engine of the on-line scene. It is a service provided by Google Co-op. The base of this engine is a collection composed from time to time. It's now quite consistent.

This is a WEB 2.0 experience, because even if I'm responsible for its creation, the ATARI Search Engine can possibly be integrated by ATARI web-masters adding its HTML code.

Have a good ATARI WEB Surfing =3D)

You can also upload them yourself in incoming with a small *.UPL readme file (which I find is an important addition). They will be picked up by Martin and moved as he sees fit in the hiearchy of the server and then announced.

Hi,

atari.org server is down <http://websitedownornot.com/atari.org.html>
Will it be back on-line soon ? Links are broken, and email delayed :(

May we have news from the maintainers ?

Best regards,

There is a message thread about it at Atari Forum:

http://69.90.163.150/~atari276/viewtopic.php?f=28&t=24756

Seems they had a hardware crash and are in the process of switching and restoring from backups.

Thanks for the news. So, it may take a week to fix the server. People are working on it, to replace the hardware that is out of order. We will wait until that great service come up again. We're quite a lot :-)

Hi,

Is there somebody in charge of the atari.org portal ?

My web site <http://eureka.atari.org/> depends a lot on atari.org services. I have counters that are working good.
I have an e-mail address that is luckily well forwarded.
The problem is that my ISP recently changed its domain name convention, and that the old name isn't still maintained.

I recently asked to the atari.org support to change my subdomain name to the new name. Will it be corrected soon ?

My link to atari.org subdomain name is broken :-(

Thanks,

Best regards,

The ATARI bookmarks page <http://eureka.atari.org/atari.html> was updated. The goal consists in valid links, even if it corresponds to sometimes dated information. Part of these bookmarks persist since the creation of the WEB site, back to the year 1996.

The interest with those numerous bookmarks, there's about 800, is to constitute an ATARI uptodate and dedicated search engine of the online scene. It is a service provided by Google Co-op. The base of this engine is a collection composed from time to time. It's now quite consistent.

This is a WEB 2.0 experience, because even if I'm responsible for its creation, the ATARI Search Engine can possibly be integrated by ATARI webmasters adding its HTML code.

Have a good ATARI WEB Surfing =3D)

Hi,

Here is what I just read ...

Regards,

Pong Celebrates Birthday in Style
Guests remained undisturbed.
by Daniel Krupa in <http://uk.ign.com/> November 20, 2012

Atari celebrated the 40th birthday of its creation Pong by transforming a 22-story building in Kansas City into a giant game of the seminal video game.

According to Downtown KC, Atari worked with the Downtown Council and members of the City Lights organising committee to bring the game to life on the side of the Downtown Marriott. It was part of the city's Lights festival, which marks the start of the Salvation Army's annual Christmas fund-raising drive.

It hasn't yet been made official but it's hope that the Guinness Book of World Records will certify this as 'The World's Largest Game of Pong'. Have you seen bigger ? Come on, it's on the side of a big building. What more do you want ?

<http://youtu.be/CMnd2zJfQkA> The game took place last week on Friday 16th, November.

Pong is recognised as one of the very first arcade cabinets, and if you don't know (but you probably do), it's is a simplified version of table tennis with minimalist graphics. Allan Alcorn created the game in response to a training exercised set for him by Atari co-founder Nolan Bushnell. The game went onto achieve mainstream popularity. If you want to know more about Atari and the genesis of its most famous game, read our editorial celebrating the 40th Birthday of Atari :

Hi,

I downloaded "Graphing Calculator Viewer" on the AppStore, to make my mind about this mathematical software, made on PowerMac at Apple, about the same time I was writing Eureka 2.12 on the ATARI 1040STf (1987). The "Viewer" is free, and doesn't allow many things, except watching its superb live demonstration mode. And, how surprised I had been, watching my remarkable 3D "Bretzel", among other 2D curves and 3D surfaces :

This is to explain how curious are mathematics. What an honor ! I created one day this 3D surface of the "Bretzel", of an helical shape, when I realized that rotating on itself, it seems to be warped, only by a sort of visual illusion.

I made a video clip <http://eureka.atari.org/bretzel.mov>, a friend of mine David Roussel conceived a demo on a SGI station <http://vrmlstuff.free.fr/bretzel/bretzel_2.wrl> in VRML, so I did <http://eureka.atari.org/vrml/bretzel2.wrl> at the same time.

This is rather strange that 25 years after it first steps (1987-2012) my Eureka 2.12 software keeps spreading out on the WEB, and inspires. You just have to watch the recent outstanding ATARI ST demo of Mr. Coke

<ftp://ftp.untergrund.net/users/ae/dhstv/mrcoke-yet_another_4k_intro.mp4>=

It's the 3D Solenoid that is remade here, surprisingly. Or the cover of international STMag NG <http://eureka.atari.org/stmag135.jpg> where DHS demo-makers reworked the 3D Escher Knot.

At last, I'm not the Encyclopedia of 3D softwares, but almost ! The lengthiness of the software explains why it keeps spreading out :-)

ATARIstically yours =3D)

I have a large number of TrueType fonts on my hard drive, all having filenames of the type EXnnnn.TTF where nnnn is a unique 4-digit number between 0001 (Apex) and 2008 (Giotto Bold Oblique). I know they came from a CD-ROM, but unfortunately not WHICH CD-ROM. (I think it was German). And was it PD? I doubt that, since most fonts contain Copyright notices.

Anybody can help me identify it? The fonts were subdivided into folders DISPLAY A_M and N_Z, FIXED, SANS, SCRIPT and SERIF.

Unfortunately they were not usable as such on my Atari with NVDI (and probably other platforms too) since they had no IDs assigned to them, so the system saw them all as 5000 (NVDI adds 5000 to the actual number contained in the font). I fixed this with Arkus, giving them numbers related to their filenames, and they now work OK.

What makes you think that it was you who invented this shape? If my memory = serves well, this shape is available in 3D Studio for years, maybe since th= e first version (along with the teapot etc).

Hi Miro,

Thanks for your answer.

Miro Krop=C3=A1=C4=8Dek writes :
> What makes you think that it was you who invented this shape? If my mem= ory serves well, this shape is available in 3D Studio for years, maybe si= nce the first version (along with the teapot etc).

I invented this 3D "Bretzel" surface, because I remember doing it ! There's no intellectual property with mathematical expressions, so it doesn't matter very much, whether I'm the creator or not, but ...

I don't know 3D Studio at all, because I never ran it, ever. But I enjoyed a lot playing with Cyber Studio, because I bought it when it was out on ATARI ST. Knowing Cyber Studio, I can say that it is a _graphical_ modeller, and not a _mathematical_ modeller. So, if you want to model a complex mathematical shape, you have to import it first from a _mathematical_ modeller. The "Teapot" wasn't created with 3D Studio, but pre-exists from another software.

The same way, 3D "Bretzel" was probably imported from Eureka 2.12 by Tom Hudson. This sounds strange, but one of the first file export from Eureka 2.12 was the "3D2" format from Cyber Studio. The format from 3D Studio is "3DS". Probably Tom Hudson converted "3D2" to "3DS".

Most 3D surfaces from Eureka 2.12 were created from scratch, without any example of mathematical modelling, because there wasn't any software of that kind, at the moment. I just can remember that I had sometimes access to Mathematica, and that's all. We were in the 80's and early 90's, and computer graphics were a science, not a business. The only faraway software model I had, was Cyber Studio.

My friends and family were witnesses of the creation of Eureka 2.12. I can even remember I've done a demonstration of the rotating 3D "Bretzel" in a forum, doing screen shots with "Dump Screen" ACC, and playing the movie with "IMG Show" APP, on a large monochrome display, with an ATARI TT, one day, long time ago, in Paris :-)

Well ... Really I invented the 3D "Bretzel". You make me happy

if you tell me it was included in 3D Studio, because I didn't know.

Pong is 40 today, because it was released November 1972, 29th :-)
I know another variant of ATARI Pong, that is released today at :
<https://itunes.apple.com/us/app/pong-world/id553946340?mt=3D8>
This is Pong World, by ATARI, and it is free-to-play on iPhone/iPad.

Well, I tested it a very little, so far.

Hi,

The Eureka 2.12 software is updated and released on its WEB page.
It is a "2D Graph Describer and 3D Modeller". You will fetch it at

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurka212.zip>
That is the Common Edition

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurka020.zip>
Is the 68020 Edition without FPU

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurkafpu.zip>
Is the 68030+881, FPU Edition

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurka060.zip>
Is the 68020-060, FPU Edition

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurklite.zip>
Is the Lite Edition, working on early ST with 720kb floppy

Writing Eureka 2.12 started for me 25 years ago, on 1040STf.
It continues under ARAnyM, and I look forward having a FireBee.

I wish you big fun with this new STuff !

Best regards,

Hi,

Looking at the screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif> you will see the 3D "Bretzel" described with Mathematica 9. You will also see the 3D "Orange" described with K3DSurf, and a Julia set drawn with Eureka 2.12 with the help of ARAnyM 0.9.14 under OS X.

I've been recently confirmed that Eureka 2.12 works with Firebee :-)

That's really exiting, I've been waiting for it for one long year.
I think this is the best graphic solution as your Falcon keeps its original compatibility with Videl but then you can get high resolutions, fast graphics etc...

Guillaume.

Hi,

I give my best wishes of happiness and success to members of the ATARI community. There's a lot of beautiful projects going on, we shall congratulate about. For instance, with Eureka 2.12, which was just published in its 2.12 release, it was announced on the portal <http://www.atari.org/> that is really cool ! The Eureka 2.12 releases are going on again. 2012 passed with happy and sad events, but 2013 begins with a lot of good perspectives, for ourselves. I designed a wishes card with 40 surfaces, with 40 formulas transposed from K3DSurf <http://k3dsurf.sf.net/> like 40 years passed by for ATARI in 2012 ...

<http://eureka.atari.org/merryhappy.png>

I bet that good expectations from 2012, will become true this year. There's so many wishes, that are almost becoming real, aren't they.

I wish you an Happy New Year 2013.

Best regards,

Yes, I've got this pre-ordered too and my Falcon is really looking forward to it.  :)

Double sided should work, I use a 720k with my mste, and that will work for both machines. Can't say what a 1.44 would do on a mste as I haven't needed to try it, but you won't be able to use hd mode on a standard ste. I had to modify mine.

But saying that, and knowing how they are wired, there shouldn't be any reason you shouldn't be able to use hd on the mega. All drive lines ar parallel to each other, they are all connected, that is how discovery cartridge is able to duplicate disks n the spectre mac emulator being able to treat them as mac drives.

Greetings,

I'm looking for a project and info to upgrade one of my Falcon030 Audio IN put and Audio Out Put to standard RCA Ports.

Similar to what the 1040STE has.

I'm not sure how many Audio Inputs, I can install or How many Audio OutPuts I can install.

Anyone know of a DIY project that I can go by to do this?

Also, I recall there was a device by LINE AUDIO called JAM IN and JAM OUT also JAM PRO IIRC.

I would probably be interested in purchasing the JAM IN and maybe the JAM OUT or the JAM PRO if I can find these items.

Anyone know where I can buy them, even overseas, do let me know.

thanks,
Barry

Thanks for sending the copy.
I was expecting a zip file, it looks similar to what I use to so with DiskCom or something.
I think I can get the file out of it.

BTW, I found some interesting items that I bought but haven't tested.
One is a RS232 Serial Port to EtherNet Port. No power supply and small.

The other item is a Serial to EtherNet port which has more electornics in it.

So maybe I can use these to do something.
Barry

BTW, I was reading the other day on how fast the standard MIDI Baud Rate is.
Some hardware upgrades like the Centurbo II B, have a connection to the MIDI chip.
Does this increase the speed of the MIDI ports?

Reason I ask, I have 2 different MIDI kits which basically connect one machine to the other.
There was suppose to be a LAN kit like this with software, But I haven't been able to find it.

I would like to get the software, I'm not sure if the kit just used a cable or something else.
The MIDI kits both have a Box for each machine with midi cables coming out of them.
One kit is connected by a Coaxial wire and the other seems to use a standard telephone wire.

I have original software for the one of the kits, think it's the one that uses the Coaxial Wire.
The other kit, not sure it has no name on the boxes. However I have found some early MIDI Software regarding connecting Ataris to transfer files and etc. Not just Music.
I started testing, and got some good results. But went on to other things.

I'd like to find some LAN software, something I've not found. I do have a few Lan cables.
One connects to a modem, One is just a straight connection. I don't know if something like a Null Modem Cable applies to the LAN port? Or if I need software to transfer files, if I connect 2 Falcons together with a Lan Cable.  I'm not sure what to expect when there connected?

LAN to EtherNet seems logical to me, as the LAN port is suppose to be pretty Fast anyway,
if my info is correct.

Hello!

New demostration by BITS
for OUTLINE 2013 Party competition:

"Loader with scroll and animated logotype, laser lines effect.
3D scroll effect.
Very fast scroll line with 2 layers background, star paintings.
Concentric circles and rectangles color animated.
Moving logotype, scrolling words, falling leaves, background scroll.
Again a little drum and bass and YM-2149 chip."

Hi all

My 1040stf has just died, so I'm after any stf or stfm with 1 meg, or more.
Don't need mouse, just the machine. I have plenty of cases so just a motherboard would do. I cant test non ste 1 meg software until I can get one.

Got to be uk model.

Thanks
Steve

Don't have a panasonic.

Do have a Atari XDM 121 Daisy Wheel Printer, which is more used to do a nice letter type set. I still Have my STAR Gemini 10, I just uncovered it to day and also some black type writer style ribbons. That printer really cuts down on Ink cartridge costs. I just bought a new All in one printer not long ago, and all ready I've had to replace one Ink Cart. For a few more dollars, I could have bought a new Printer with New Carts. CRAZY, I can almost see that moutain of printers going into a land fill over crazy Ink prices.

Anyway XDM121 is for sale or trade at right price, but not giving it away.
The ribbon cart, can probably still be found. and I think the one I have still has a few pages left in her.

Rock on!

Ho, yes, thanks. I knew this site <http://joo.kie.sk/ultrasatan/> that is UltraSatan. But <http://joo.kie.sk/satandisk/> is missing.
Then for the second, I should replace with yours, because it is related to SatanDisk anyway. I thought Satan was replaced by UltraSatan.
And that SatanDisk had disappeared. But you have the correct bookmark.

That helps a lot =3D)

Best regards,

Subject: Atari Party 2013 is 1 month away!
From: Bill Kendrick

Atari Party 2013 is one month away!  I hope to see you at the public librar= y here in Davis, on Saturday July 6th!  Many of us will be there setting th= ings up at 10am, when the library opens.  The event officially starts at 12= noon.

  http://www.newbreedsoftware.com/atariparty/2013/location/

If you're coming from out of town, and looking for a hotel or motel, here a= re a few links that you might find useful:

  * Google Maps search for "hotel" near Davis (note: check-in set for July 6th, the day of the event; change as neede= d)

    http://goo.gl/maps/V4AAI
  * "Hotels" pages on the DavisWiki and WoodlandWiki:

    http://daviswiki.org/Hotels
    http://www.woodlandwiki.org/Hotels

    (Sadly, the West Sac. and Dixon Wikis don't have anything on their "Hotels" pages; but they're wikis, so you can help fix that! ;) )

Want to help?

We're still in need of TVs (I need at least 3 more than I have, to set up a= ll of the systems I'd like to bring), and volunteers to help 'usher' (hand = out raffle tickets when people arrive, and help attendees -- or at least po= int them to someone else who can help).

I'm also considering buying a pair of game consoles (Atari 2600 & 7800, plu= s games & controllers) from a local comic book store to give away as prizes=
.  They're asking $50, but I'll also need to buy some power supplies, since= they have none.

However, I have $0 budget this year, since so far all donations have been g= ive-away items.  While this obviously isn't a deal-breaker, it's always coo= l to have actual Ataris to give away as prizes, so I thought I'd mention it=
, just in case anyone out here felt particularly charitable. :)

Thanks!

Sorry, for this double post. I've been trying to figure out how the "Identities" work in the Troll newsreader. I finally figured it out, so I won't be geek@atarians.com anymore (the default fake address for Troll) and my signature will display.

So anyway, please check out my blog if you are interestested.

Hi Everybody,

because there is already a Z80 CP/M Emulator for the ST Series, exists also a Gameboy Emulator ?
I am sure a 8 MHz 68000 would be fast enough to emulate at least the original Gameboy (not Gameboy Color, Advance etc).
May be a Gameboy Color could be smoothly emulated with an Mega STE, too.
No, I am NOT looking emulators for Falcons or TTs.

Thx for any hint in advance,
  Peter

There is none. After looking at the specs, I'm sure ST is to slow for Gameboy emulation.

     8MHz to emulate a 4 MHz processor, I agree, it's too slow.
     But what about the MegaSTE?

You need to emulate video output and sound too.

As a rule of humb: you need at least 10x mhz to emulate something reliably = and without too much glitches. So, you'd need at leasy 40MHz CPU to emulate= 4MHz Gameboy.

Example: EmuXL is a Atari XL/XE emulator for Falcon. It is written in assem= bler. It is not very reliable, and on stock 16MHz Falcon you'd get about 33= % speed of XL. On the other hand, Atari800 is emulator written in C, much m= ore reliable, and you need at least 66MHz CT60 equiped Falcon to get around= 100% XL/XE emulation.

There are more than one way to emulate/simulate an other device.
Think about "Wine" for example, it's not really an emulator but the result is similar.
Also, a Gameboy does NOT need a full Z80 emulation, it's something between a 8080 and a Z80 CPU.
A Gameboy Display has only 160x144 pixel, and there is no GPU to emulate.
An 68000 has a very efficient working set of CPU opcodes and can fetch more data at one time (compared to a Z80 cpu).
And last but not least, there are some real working Gameboy Emulators existing for an Amiga, too, e.g. Wzonka-Lad or AmiGameBoy...

Regards
  Peter

Wine is completly diffrent then console emulation. It is an API emulation.

This does not matter really. It is still a CPU emulation.

Still - it does not matter. What matters is internal Gameboy video memory o= rganizationm and how much CPU power will it take to convert it to something= displayable on ST.

But, it too slow.

They are 020+, so I think that to work reliably they need something like 03=
0@32Mhz

So, while I think that ST(E)/Mega STE are to slow, TT or (esp)accelerated F= alcon should be able to emulate Gameboy.

Would anyone know where to acquire a copy of the latest version of NVDI? I can't seem to locate my old copies and I am trying to rebuild my systems. The old website http://www.nvdi.de/gb/NVDI5.html and http://www.application-systems.de don't have it or respond.

MEGA ST 4
1040 ST
Ambery Box
SC1224
SM124
40 MB Shoebox HardDrive
ST Multi Sync monitor adapter cable
True Mouse

Thanks ~ slax

You might try this message thread at AtariForum:

http://www.atari-forum.com/viewtopic.php?p=142179

But I don't know which (if any) d/l links are still valid - worth a shot though.

Hi,

Here is the result of some work on the old APL 68000 interpreter. It was designed to run with GEM and a 68000. I patched it to make it run on a TT (6 times faster) and on a CT060 (80 times faster).

The editor gave me permission to distribute both the APL interpreter and my patch via my wab page.

If you are interested in this powerful language:

http://gtello.pagesperso-orange.fr/apl_e.htm

This page is just a start, I hope adding a more complete program source to show various features on calculus, graphism, etc...

Guillaume.

Hi,

You know about Persistence Of Vision, POV-Ray, the oldest ray-tracing software that runs on ATARI machines, don't you ?

You may have heard that a French research team from Lyon, used POV-Ray, and only POV-Ray, to realize an animation film about history of Mathematics <http://www.dimensions-math.org/> This 2 hours animation picture was a tremendous success on the WEB.

What you may not know is that the same research team from Lyon, had the excellent idea to realize a second film. This is always fully realized with POV-Ray, and totally free viewing.

I strongly advise you to learn and have fun viewing this second opus <http://www.chaos-math.org/> watching the first before, if you haven't already. This is a superb realization, that truly demonstrate the famous quality of Persitence Of Vision tools.

You're welcome,

Wow, there is some impressive stuff there! I'm seriously thinking about ordering the DVD.

Thanks Francois!  :)

I'm using POV-Ray since a long time. I appreciate the work that has been done for these animation pictures. I appreciate the way it is proposed to have fun learning. The research team who realized those films are remarkable POV-Ray experts, and also rendered with it in a very adapted way. POV-Ray can very well render mathematics and physical phenomenons, as a very helpful scientific tool. POV-Ray is a good tool to visualize what could be only concepts in the mind.

And, it's free, so that films can be shared widely. Don't hesitate :-)

Regards,

Hi,
ARAnyM <http://aranym.org/> is the GNU/GPL ATARI Virtual Machine
from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is modified with the new releases of Teradesk 4.04 and HDDriver 8.46. It supports :

`Run_win` allows launching on PC with Windows
`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with OS X
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with OS X
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh-PC-PlayStation3 are all supported with Windows,
OS X and GNU/Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is running on any machine.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

Hi,

Here is latest news from Nolan Bushnell about ATARI formally Infogrames

         <http://youtu.be/5L7GRNFC2sg>

"ATARI will divorce from French parents ... and I'm hopeful, I can be part of that" Nolan Bushnell, 2013 January 30th.

We're far from Bonnell's point of view, but Bushnell is in the board.

Regards,

Hi,

We don't speak about bankruptcy anymore, because the ATARI board was changed, and that ATARI SA has a new CEO called Fr=E9d=E9ric Chesnais.
I hope that ATARI has found its new Steve Jobs, by the same way !

Regards,

I have isolated the arithmetics from CALC.PRG and produced a small utility for the commandline (Yes, shame om me, but it happens that commandline programs are quickly finished writing)
It might not be of any peactical use, but it was fun to do and I wanted to show that executing basic arithmetic formulas is not such a big deal. The actual code is only a few pages.

You can download tinycalc.zip from my Home page (see sig)
I consider the program part of AHCC distro which already includes CALC.PRG

A brief description of tinycalc.tos is attached.

Readme for tinycalc.tos (c) by H. Robbers Amsterdam feb 2013

Tinycalc is a small commandline tool for parsing and evaluating expressions in form of standard lower grade formulas.

Tinycalc has been derived from the CALC program that is part of the AHCC distribution AHCC.ATARI.ORG

By the same token, tinycalc will become part of that distribution. But for those not interested in compilers, tinycalc will also be a distribution of its own. TINYCALC.ZIP

Formulas take a well known form which is best demonstrated in a few examples:

4+3+212-19
(5*9)-(-4*8)
8*9-4*8
5^2-4^2
sin 15 * cos 15
sqrt 2            /* yields 1.404... / sqr 2             / yields 4 */

expressions between parentheses are treated as primaries. Operator precedence is handled correctly without the need of parentheses summary of operators:

binaries + precedence:

and	1
+	3
-	3
/	5

unaries (NB: All unary operators have the same priority which is higher than that of any binary operator.

```
+
V                 /* same as sqrt */
sqrt sqr sin   cos   tan
asin  acos  atan asinh acosh atanh log10 ln exp
tor           /* convert degrees to radials / tod           / convert radials to degrees */

The progran is best used under freeMiNT and Toswin2.
Leave the program by typing ex and return.

Have fun!!

I have some spare parts for the Atari Falcon030.
Things like new hard drive bracket kit and misc items.
Can pull some stuff off of board.

Need something for a Falcon, Contact me, Also have software, and some add on hardware. Just ask.

Hi I have two hand scanners in the box, have software package including OCR for at least oneof them.

No interest on eBay, and no takers on free cycle. So if anyone wants them for the cost of shipping, or swap for an Eiffel adaptor.

I also have a Lyra scanner tray/bed.

I am uk based.

Steve

Hi,

ARAnyM <http://aranym.org/> is the GNU/GPL ATARI Virtual Machine
from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is modified with the new releases of freeMiNT 1.18.0. It supports :

`Run_win` allows launching on PC with Windows
`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with OS X
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with OS X
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh-PC-PlayStation3 are all supported with Windows,
OS X and GNU/Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is running on any machine.
Here is a screen-shot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

To any customer who wanted to purchase a Item from me thru E-Bay and Pay Pal.

It is against my business Policy to ship out my Items without at least being able to transfer Shipping to my Bank Account.

This is not my Fault, I Always ship when paid in full or at least get the shipping amount tranfered to my Bank Account.

I do not have your Money. E-Bay and Pay-Pal does.

There has not been One transfer to my bank account that was setup to serve the Atari Community thru E-Bay using Pay-Pay.

Do not bame me, It is there business practices that have caused the problems.

Sincerely
Barry

Doing some research on other companies or ways to do business, without using E-Bay and Pay-Pay.

If anyone has any suggestions, I'd like to know about them.

At the moment, I would setup a system for buying, selling Atari related items my self. If there is enough call for it.

Holding the Money between the buyer and seller is wrong, at least the way I have always known how to do business.

Go to just about any store and pick up a item and walk out the door and see what happens!

This new game is sort of based on Sim City.
The object is to lure people to sell product thru your Computer system. Then keep the money and let what ever happens happen.

Game development is in its beginning stage. I'm open to suggestions on options to go into the game.

I use PayPal a lot, and yes when people pay via PayPal it doesn't go into your account unless requested,then takes a fe days. I get around this by using couriers that take payment via pp, I also have a PayPal MasterCard which is linked to my account, and I use that to pay shipping from the post office.

So when people pay me, I have access immediately.

Barry, what's your eBay I'd?

Steve

Normally I wouldn't mind telling you.
This isn't the first time that E-Bay has ripped me off.

Tired of it.

Could anyone give me guidance on getting a powered cable for the Gigafile SD ACSI box. I purchased one from Wolfgang at Iventronik but I don't have a way to power the device.

Anyone who reads this group have any experience with a FDI?

I recently bought one and have a Analog 8.
And a Original Cubase Audio Package.
Have 2 Small DSP clocks.

Also have Logic Audio, with Unitor II and the other cart that has more MIDI ports on it.

I'm not into MIDI alot, mostly D2D recording, making my own Audio CDs.

I'm interested in the Coaxial part of the FDI.
I have some fiber optic cables that I think will work with it,

I need to know if I can use the Coaxial Input/output with a Mixer board. to transfer Audio from the Falcon with FDI to Mixer, then on to other recording equipment?

I got no manual with the FDI, I've read some about it on the Net, But, I'm not finding the info, that I'm looking for. As to just what it is capable of.

I can run the FDI with or without the Analog 8. But I need the clock at 44.1 when working with Audio files, or D2D recording.

Any help is appreciated.

If you use the coax output, you need a coax digital cable, not optical.

I haven't used mine to go out to other equipment much. I have a mixer with a coax out, which I use as an input mixer to my Falcon. The mixer also provides the 44.1 clock. Whatever is hooked up to the mixer is converted to digital for input to the Falcon. I edit the audio with Cubase, and then mix everything down to a stereo file.

A long time ago I used the optical out into a Sony minidisc recorder to make masters and it worked great. You shouldn't have a problem doing the same with whatever equipment you have that will accept digital input at 44.1 CD quality.

Hi,

Appreciate the info,

I'd like to find out more about going Out with the FDI, also about going IN.

With the FDI installed, I want to know if I can still use the Falcons Standard Audio INput and OUTput too.

Thing is, I'm not sure if the FDI alone, is suppose to take place of the Falcons standard Audio IN and Audio OUT.
Which this also may have something to do with the software you use, as Some will allow you to select different options.

I'm working on a experiment with Audio and I don't want to screw up the DSP, or the Falcons standard Audio IN and OUT.

The Mixer I have doesn't have a port labeled COAXIAL, which is what I will be using. But it has alot of other ports like a AUX port.
And STEREO L and R, also MONO, Phantom Power switch, Mic Ports and etc.
Some have said that RCA cables can be used with the FDIs Ports if you keep them short. I'm going to get some good Coaxil cables anyway. And am looking for maybe another mixer that has a Coaxial Port, also, maybe a effect Processor. Also maybe sometype of Recorder. I know DAT, use to be big, but I'm not real fimilar with it. Basically I want to do a Solo music project, And need to do Some OverDubbing, recording Direct to Disk.

Also, looking for a good deal on a decent size SCSI hard drive if anyone has one or two for decent price or trade. Need 50 Pin.

And Need some 68PIN SCSI converters to 50 PIN, if anyone has em. I have around 20 new 68 pin SCSI drives, And I need converters to make them 50 pin.

Any help, ideas, on the FDI and Analog 8, is appreciated. I'm trying to understand how the FDI affects the Falcons Stock Audio system.
Before I start connecting things up. Cause I don't want to blow something important.

BTW, just want to mention that I am selling alot of my extra Atari ST-Falcon software and hardware and will trade also.
I'm looking for a good copy or original 4TFX or similar, It was one of the first Audio Falcon programs that came out.

My version seems that one part works and the other bombs.

Also, looking for Audio software/ hardware I don't have. might be interested in a JAM 4/8 IN or similar.

And anyone know about the CLAB Unitor II Cart? Like some info on the Multi-port and the other IN port, as to what I can plug into it with software other than Logic, if there is any.

thanks,
Barry

Can one simply change the drive Mech out of an Atari 354 disk drive and get a DS/DD Drive, if thats the type of Mech you put in it???

The Atari 354 is a single sided drive asfaik.

Also, if you put a 1.44 Mech into a Atari 354 drive, would it work as a DS/DD on a 1040STE, But if you connected it to a MEGA STE as a second drive, would it work as a DS/DD and or a 1.44 Drive, especially if the Mega STe has the 1.44 internal drive?

Or does something else need to be done.

If you want a quality recording (and monitoring) stay away from the Falcon's standard inputs. You can use your analog mixer for input, but you need some type of D/A converter like a DAT machine to go through, or an ART D/IO (converts analog to digital) or something like that. A mixer with a digital out is really the way to go. I have an Alesis Multimix 12 FXD. I'm sure there is something better by now, but it works like a charm with the coax out to the FDI coax in. The mixer has built in effects (not great, but works okay for me). Whatever I have plugged into the mixer gets converted to digital, sent to the FDI and into the Falcon for Cubase Audio. The mixer also has a "control room" section, so I don't need an additional output mixer to monitor things. That silly little $100 and something mixer did away with a whole rack fully of additional gear for me (effects and output mixer).

Hope your project works out!

ok, I have the SoundPool Analog 8 which gives 8 RCA type Outputs.
I thought that it converted digital to Analog, (i'll have to do some more research on it).
Anyway, with some software, It will ouput a different song/sample on each of the 8 outputs.
While other software will output a song or sample on all or just about all of the 8 outputs.

Some software knows if the FDI and or Analog 8 is connected and you can choose the way you want to use it. So I'm tring to stay with the software that will use these items. I also have 2 small Cubase DSP clocks.
That I can use on my other Falcons. I have several Falcons, and am in the process of setting up a Studio based on them. Also have a nice 1040STe, Mega STe, a SonoVista which is based on a Falcon, Also a Mega ST4 that needs a Video Shifter, and a STacy 4 that's apart for a upgrade project. Just haven't had time to do the upgrades to it yet.
It will be a nice Stacy if all goes well. I'd like to put some type of PC emulator board in it, I read that there was one that would work in it, If anyone has one for sale/trade, let me know.

Also, did some experimenting with the TOS in the STacy, but it seems that it has a special type of TOS and I'm not sure if it can be upgraded. I'd like to upgrade it to at least Tos 1.62 the STe TOS, as I know most stuff will run on that Tos.
Although TOS 2.06 or better wouldn't be bad for newer software.

I recall some software that allows you to boot up the TOS you want on a Floppy. I have it here somewhere.
Not sure if it will work on a hard drive, as the STacy has one. 20megs, need to put a larger one in.

One of the problems, I ran into with the STacy is the internal PowerSupply, it sits over the 68000 or close to it.
I removed the 68000, and plan on putting in a 16mhz board with a 68000, and maybe a tweety board.
I think I know a way to put the power supply in a different location. But if there is another type of Power Supply (Internal) that I can get, I'd like to know about it.

If anyone knows any other upgrades or modifications for the STacy, I would like to know about them.

The Stacy 4 is normally monochrome, unless you connect it to a Monitor, I did some experimenting with a Video Key, and monitor master. It would be cool if I could find a way to replace the STacys stock screen, with one that I could do Color and Monochrome with. Maybe I could get sometype of graphics card in there.
I have a spare ET4000, also a Nova but its in my MSTE.

I do have 2 SuperChargers, so I can connect one of them to the STacy. Maybe if I take the board and find room inside of the STacy and make some cuts for the ports. (Hmmm) that might work. I'm only interested in running DOS mostly anyway. And the SuperCharger gives you another meg to use IIRC.

Well, I got off topic, was talking about Falcons and Music. My Mixer is a New Yamaha, has alot of ports, and effects.
As I set it all up, I'll see if I have to get a Mixer with a Coaxial port.
It may have one labeled sometthing else. If not,
I'll look for one if I have to have it to do what I have in mind.

thanks for your help anyone else with knowledge on using the FDI/Analog 8, I don't mind some advise or reading about your experience using it.
Also, looking for Falcon Audio software, will pay cash/trade.
And looking for hardware to use a Router with my Ataris with STing (anyone)?

Unlike amiga drives, atari st drives are sort of standard. So any 3.5" drive should fit as they use the stand schugart interface. I've never tried a direct replacement for hd drives, you won't be able to go hd but should be able to read dd disks though.

most ibm drives are set too drive b   so you need to set it to drive A  all all later disk drives for ibm do this with the cable.
try to find a drive with < A -B > on it  try a 720k drive from a apple.
some 1.44 drives will not work on a stf - stfm -ste. // megaste may work in 720k only.

As long as, I've had a Falcon 030, I've looked for software to make use of it.

Wether connecting two Falcons together with the Lan ports (if possible).

Or using the LAN for connecting to the Net.

Is the Falcons LAN Port Bugged? Or is it just lack of software?

IIRC, the Modem software STalker, can make use of the LAN port.

ALL, this problem seem to begin with the Falcons bugged modem port.

I have HSmodem7 installed, but dont know, what is set for the LAN port, as most of the doc I have is in German. And at the time, there wasn't any translators around.

I was wondering, if anyone reading this group, has some good knowledge of the Falcons LAN port.

I'd like to know what software (if any) is out there to make some kind of use of this port.

Also, can someone send me HSMODEM7 with English Docs, OR the necessary files to make the most of the modem port and Lan Port. I am using STing 1.26.

I have 2 Centurbo II B versions, and 3 Falcons with small upgrades, but no major Processor upgrade. I recall, the CT2B really rocked on the NET, back in the Modem Days.

Now, I have a collection of various Routers that work, but I have no way to connect to my Falcons. Although, I found a interesting Cable, that I can connect a Router to any Atari
ST-Falcon. I'm going to experiment with it and see what happens.

Also have a collection of those PC ethernet boards.

Is there anyone making a device so I can connect my Falcon or other Atari to a regular Router?

And does anyone know any tricks, to get a Router connected to a Falcon and actually get online with it, without trying to hunt down hardware that doesn't seem to exist.

I was going to do sometype of Null Modem to my Laptop, Or another option I know about, but that's really not what I need. I can always download software to a CD and then put it into one of my Falcons CD drives.

I may go back to the old 56K Dial up. The CT2Bs were not that slow anyway.
I have some ideas in mind, so I may be able to come up with something on my own.

Greetings,

People, I'm looking for some 3.5 50 pin Hard Drives.

They do not have to be in a case, but I may be interested in any like that as well.

I can re-do most PC 50 pin hard drives to use on my Ataris.

So, if anyone has any for sale/trade/donate please e-mail me.

Mostly looking for 500megs and up.

Any help is appreciated.

None of the above. Falcon LAN port is in fact RS-432, also used in Apples f= or AppleTalk. It is fully functional, but it is not compatibile with ordina= ry (RS-232C) modem hardware. You need an adapter which my be hard to come b= y today.

To make matters even more intresting, there is even one more RS-323C port "= hidden" inside every Falcon - there is hardware and it works, but there is = no socket connected to it. Some brave souls connected it themselves, and it= worked.

HSmodem7 is a bit buggy. If you use FreeMiNT, use FreeMiNT serial drivers i= nstead. Read FreeMiNT docs, there is some explanation about Hsmodem7. I rem= ember seeing english docs for it, so search FTP sites carefully.

Any software that allows selecting that port. But you will have troubles fi= nding proper cables.

There are three options.
NetUSBEE (for any ST/TT/Falcon) - I do not think anyone produces it atm., b= ut all specs are freely available, and you may be lucky to find it on ebay.=
 (http://hardware.atari.org/netusbee/netus.htm). This guy: http://lotharek.=
pl/ is gearing up to produce it if there is enough intrest.
EtherNAT (for CT60) - daughterboard for CT60 (http://nature.atari.org/)
SvETHlana (for SuperVidel) - daughterboard for SuperVidel, which is daughte= rboard for CT60, which is daughterboard for Falcon :). Soon to be released =
(http://nature.atari.org/)

IMO, software-wise FreeMiNT is your best option.

Null modem is a good idea. One word of advice: running it at half of maximu= m speed might be better then at maximum speed. Reason is, Falcon RS-232C ha= rdware is unbuffered, and if Falcon is to slow to recive byte from it (whic= h often happens when you run at 114200baud speed, and it does not work reli= able with that speed. 56600 baud is much more reilable (and because of obsc= ure technical reasons) faster when doing TCP/IP over it.

Hello,

I wrote a tool to save/restore the memory of the BOSS DR-5 drum box using an Atari (from the STF to the TT).

You can find the program with explanations and screen captures here:

I have my falcon connected using etherNEC via Ethernet to my routers. Can FTP fine etc, got a problem getting cab running.

As I was moving my Ataris around, so that they are more accessible, I noticed the mega ste has the same AppleTalk port. There are quite a few cables on eBay for the port, seems to be lots more cables for everything USA side of the Atlantic. Anyway got myself an AppleTalk cable so can now play with the port. So in theory I can connect falcon n mate together.

Atari setup shouldn't make a difference, I'm using hd in my lighthouse towered ste, and have no problem. My mste came with a hd drive. The floppy lines on the st's are connected in parallel with each other. That's why you are able to have 2 external drives daisy chained, if you disconnect the internal one.

Hey Steve,

thats something I'd like to try as well. At the moment my MSTe is in storage utill I get my other equipment setup the way I want it.

It's not all that important for me to connect my Ataris to Routers and etc. as I use them for only a few things. Although I have tons of software on drives, CDs and disks. Same with 8-bit, Got to set that system back up for a project.

But if I can find the right hardware, or do it myself then I would like to set a few of them up.

I think I can still do the old modem dial up around these parts, if so I may go that route for a while, I miss tinkering around :)

I'm selling some Atari Software and things on EBay.
Look for barryjoe(606)

sell if only in US for now.

But if one sees something from overseas,
Let me know and I'll try to work out something for you.

Greetings,

I'm in the market for a JAM 8 IN and maybe a JAM PRO and also a JAM 8 OUT.

Are these still available new?
Link please

If not, looking for used especially JAM 8 IN or a similar device, not sure if Sound Pool made something like this?
If so, and have one for sale let me know.

thanks,
phantomm@suddenlink.net

Well I need it for a Drive B as the Atari 354 drive i have is a external drive. Single Sided.
My MegaSTE has a 1.44mb drive A inside.
If you have ever connected a second drive to a MSTE that has the internal 1.44mb Drive A you'll understand what I'm talking about.

However I have a 1040STe, and using the 354 as a Drive B thats DSDD would be ok.
I'm just wondering what type of Mech will work and if a 1.44 would do both jobs if I want to use it for either the 1040STE or MSTE as a second 1.44.

LS

There is a new version available on my home page (see sig).

Changes:
september 22 2012
v4.12
  General:
   Changed 'xref' to 'pdb' in all source files (pdb = Project Data Base, xref.... is only part of it).

  Compiler:
   Fixed non Coldfire code for 'move' in some cases.
   Also fixed a bug where mov3q could have been used, but was not.

  Shell:
   Small fix in handling time/date stamps by make.
   Pass uppercase masks to fileselecter when run on single TOS.

  Assembler:
   Fix dc.l name +/- nnnn
   where nnnn got lost resulting wrongfully in dc.l name.

  Library:
   ahccstd*: Added unlink, strcmpi.

There is a new version availble on:
http://members.chello.nl/h.robbers/

october 3 2012
v4.14
  General:
    Removed leftover traces of a debug session some time ago.

  Compiler:
    Fixed a bug where a static string was not properly used (changed without copying)
    The bug resulted in incorrect compiling of ahccstdi.lib.

  Assembler:
    Fixed a regression where incbin statement crashed.

Have fun.

Hi,

I'm quite embarrassed ... The ARAnyM 0.9.14 for Mac OS X that is located here <http://sf.net/projects/aranym/files/aranym/0.9.14/> on the official site doesn't work for me. It was built with Xcode 4.5 under Mountain Lion, which native compiler is not GNU / GCC anymore. The result for me, who still use Snow Leopard 10.6.8 on the iMac, is a crash when it is launched (Bus Error).

I learned that Snow Leopard today remains the most used of Mac OS X versions, for compatibility reasons (thanks to Rosetta). So I have two questions ...

- Are you hosted with Mac OS X < 10.7 (previous to Lion) ?
- Is the official ARAnyM 0.9.14 crashes when you launch it ?

If you have affirmative answers to both questions, the solution for me will be to propose, for Mac OS X < 10.7, a working version of `MacAranym JIT` 0.9.14, built with Xcode 3 (and not Xcode 4.5). I've already built such a working version.

That version, built with Xcode 3, is suitable for 10.5 or upper.

If you are hosted with Mac OS X < 10.7 and the official ARAnyM 0.9.14 launches correctly, I would be very interested, because that really doesn't work on my configuration (Snow Leopard).

Thanks,

Regards,

Hi,

ARAnyM <http://aranym.org/> is the GNU/GPL ATARI Virtual Machine from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is modified with the new release of ARAnyM 0.9.14 version. It supports :

`Run_win` allows launching on PC with Windows
`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with OSX
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with OSX
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh-PC-PlayStation3 are all supported with Windows, Mac OSX and GNU/Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is running on any machine.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

I would really like to run my Atari software, mostly productivity, on this Mac. Especially Calamus SL 98 at the moment.

But, when I read sites like ARAnyM, GEMulator, and others, I find the instructions are above my knowledge level.

Is there anyplace with "Atari for Dummies" or similar (LOL) that could get me through this? Or someone willing to take the time to give me a hand via emails?

I'd set up my Hades 060 if I had the space. :-(

Hi all,

today I had a problem with eiffel for example when press a [ key I see that= it was a Enter. Earlier I have but the another key (maybe it was i) I trie= d to programmed again and it was resolved, but now I tried and programed ag= ain the firmware of Eiffle 1.10 but still I have the information during the= booting computer Keyboard failure, but the keyboard is not working at all.=
 I tried with older version 1.06 or 1.09. I run the program Eiffelcf.app lo= ad hex file later Program flash after a one or two minutes it finished back= to TOS reboot the computer but still the same. I tried to fire button duri=

I tried under ct63/ctpci.=20

Unfortunately, Is it possible signs of damage, the Eiffel  :(=20
What else I can to do it ?

Best regards

Hi,

I have just released a version 2.8 of YSEDITOR PLUS

New in this release:

- imports patches from M. Gregory's TX81Z Programmer (*.tx8)
- Random patchbank generator based on an idea by R. Dokmanovic

YSEDITOR can be downloaded here:

Hello,

I've just started to learn APL (why? Don't know... Just did it!)

Has anyone documents (paper or scans) of the user manual for the APL

68000 version for Atari ST ????????

Thanks!

Guillaume.

Hi everyone,

still need a bit help to make my collection of ST infos/links a bit more complete. If you know links/URLs I did not listed already, especially to ST hardware sites, do not hesitate to send me a hint.
You can find my Atari section at my vintage computer site here:

Do you know about the ATARI Search Engine ? <http://fon.gs/atarians/> There's also the Pathfinder <http://www.atari.org/> ... I'm trying to collect dedicated ATARI links for the actual online scene. 800 links.

Best regards,

No (but now), but I do NOT collect only links, I have also some additional "locally hosted" infos and files for download.
Also, I do not like to present dead links - I am only collecting working (still alive) sites.

Look at it closer. There's not so many broken links, as you may think.
Because, I'm regularly scanning all these links, and fix/sort those.

This is hard work, indeed.

You're right, I found only two dead links so far (http://www.donz�.ch/atari/software/ and http://strider.mjjprod.free.fr/), but I did'nt check all.
But anyway, thanks for the effort. I have to clarify what I wanted to say... I do not want to offer _only_ links. Also, I do not like to collect links without any relationship to Atari STs (e.g. http://www.thepcmanwebsite.com/media/joust/joust.shtml) ...

  Peter

You're right. There's other links around to browse Philipp's WEB site.

This one for Stider's WEB site is working. Well known !

That's kind of you :-) I'm doing my best.

I understand. You also want to make softwares available.

Joust is a very famous ATARI game. Well, playable on ATARI ST.
I'm also playing it on PlayStation 3, in its original form. Great !

Best regards,

Joust was also available for many other platforms.
Anyway, it's _not_ an Atari ST site, it's only a flash game page with an Atari game. So it's still not related with the computer Atari ST.

Can I get someone to help me install everything on Aranym? I want the most modern OS for Atari.  Will run Linux, Windows, Mac, whatever you prefer me to use. Just nee help doing it.

Hi,

I have enlarged my ARAnyM's collection of screenshots ...

<http://eureka.atari.org/winaranym.gif> under Windows Vista <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif> under Mac OS X
<http://eureka.atari.org/tuxaranym.gif> under Mageia GNU/Linux
<http://eureka.atari.org/screen_ps3.png> on PlayStation 3

I maintain an ARAnyM minimal configuration, running with all these host systems and all these machines, at the address

<http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip>

You have only to unzip, and run the miniPack like it is.

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

LS

There is a new version available on my home page (see sig)

Changes:
may 30 2012
v4.11
   Compiler:
     Revision of registerization of local variables.
     Produces slightly better code.
     Also repairs Draconis Marathon.

     Fixes a bug where a explicit cast of ptr to long or vv was handled incorrectly.

     A further bugfix (A very very old one, perhaps since v3b1).

   Assembler:
     Implemented opcodes:
      align aline
     Allow single = for 'equals' in IF expressions.

     Full implementation of 'equ' expressions.

     addq.w #n,An addq.b #n,An silently changed to addq.l #n,An.

     2 new pseudo opcodes for use with Coldfire compatible programs:
      xsave reglist
      xrest reglist
     The instructions generate the movem sequences required for Coldfire campatibility. You, as a programmer, do not have to count the registers for the lea instructions.
     The compiler will do that for you and also generate the lea's.

   Library:
     Provided 68000/Coldfire usable TOS bindings in case
     a project did not include the AHCC specific tos.h
     (The one that uses __syscall__).
     The library is called "ahcctos.lib".

Correct.
Not on 68K but certainly in my head.
Beware of things that only exist in your head. ;-) which is apparently a known GNU / GCC bug according to <http://gcc.gnu.org/bugzilla/show_bug.cgi?id=3D23442>

I'm using gcc 4.2.1 under Mac OS X 10.6.8, on a quad-core i5.

Does somebody already encounter this bug, and bypassed it ?

Thanks to help,

Best regards,

really great work building cross-compilers on different platforms.
I can use these tools, and it's doing the job. The problem for me, is it's the latest GNU tools available. I mean, I use these tools under Mac OS X, and there's 3 native compilers available. Apple with the Xcode tools, gives GNU / GCC 3.3, 4.0 and 4.2 native compilers.

I would really appreciate if I had a GNU / GCC 3.x cross-compiler to build with it. There's a lot of old ATARI applications source code that don't require the latest compiler to build. There's problems with the "-mshort" gcc switch that is not supported anymore, and the major evolutions of MiNTlib and GEMlib with GCC 4.x etc. The fact also that GNU / GCC 4.x is really restrictive on the C syntax.

If I had to choose, I would prefer not to modify the C sources, to fit with the GCC 4.x compliances, and better use GCC 3.x instead.

I tested building GNU / GCC 3.3.3 and 3.3.6 cross-compilers, but it failed with the same error, starting with gcc 4.2.1. The first usage of the cross-gcc (xgcc) in the building process fails ... I tried to use gcc 3.3 native compiler instead, but I didn't succeed yet :-(

It would be wonderful if ATARI developers could choose their compiler.
I'll make some further investigations. I should have better chance to build GNU / GCC 3.x cross-compiler, using the gcc 3.3 native compiler.

Best regards,

In that case, this must be a MacOS issue. I clearly remember building various versions of gcc, both native and cross compilers. I think Vincent had started with gcc 4.2, Zorro with 3.3.6 and Keith with 4.0.1 -- so all of them have been, at some point in time, able to build it. It might be a good idea to ask them for patches, if they are no available anymore.

Hi,

ATARI is 40 today, 2012 june, 27 !
In 1971, Bushnell and partner Ted Dabney managed to turn Spacewar! into the first mass-produced video arcade game, Computer Space. It wasn=92t particularly successful. Undeterred, they continued their partnership, Syzygy, by founding Atari, Inc.. (Another company, it turned out, had first dibs on =93Syzygy.=94) They filed the incorporation papers on June 27, 1972, occupied 1,700 square feet of office space in Santa Clara, California, in the heart of Silicon Valley, and got ready to release a game they called Pong. The rest is videogame history.

So, I've set to selling my Falcon and its software.

It's just the board, with accelerator and memory.

http://www.ebay.com/itm/160832830585?ssPageName=STRK:MESELX:IT&_trksid=p3984.m1555.l2649#ht_500wt_1413

The software is a separate auction but includes NVDI 5, N.AES 2.0, MagiC 6, and CD Writer Suite 4 with ExtenDOS.

Thanks for looking.

Hi,

ARAnyM <http://aranym.org/> is the GNU/GPL ATARI Virtual Machine
from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is modified with the new release of EmuTOS 0.8.7 and HDDriver 8.44. It supports :

`Run_win` allows launching on PC with Windows
`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with OSX
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with OSX
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh-PC-PlayStation3 are all supported with Windows,
Mac OSX and GNU/Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is running on any machine.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

The Digital Game Museum is hosting an Atari Party -- all of my systems will be there -- at Cogswell Polytechnical College in Sunnyvale on Sunday, July 29th. It's free, and open to the public! Come enjoy a variety of Atari (and other systems) games, to celebrate Atari's 40th birthday, and the 100th birthday of Sunnyvale (long-time home of Atari).

More info at:

  http://digitalgamemuseum.org/blog/were-having-atari-party

My own Atari Parties, which I've run in Davis, California -- as well as some 'Retro Gaming for Teens' events that I've thrown for some local public libraries -- can be found here:

Hi,

The Eureka 2.12 software is updated and released on its WEB page.
It is a "2D Graph Describer and 3D Modeller". You will fetch it at

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurka207.zip>
That is the Common Edition

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurka020.zip>
Is the 68020 Edition without FPU

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurkafpu.zip>
Is the 68030+881, FPU Edition

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurka060.zip>
Is the 68020-060, FPU Edition

<http://eureka.atari.org/eurklite.zip>
Is the Lite Edition, working on early ST with 720kb floppy

Complete FPU versions are now distributed. One of those is rather intended for ATARI original machines, and the other for clones.

I wish you big fun with this new STuff !

Best regards,

I finally used successfully the ATARI native GNU/GCC 3.3.6 from Zorro.
I couldn't find the correct patch for the m68k-atari-mint target yet.
Cross-compilers are very useful. But I can alternatively use native :-)

I bet playing Space War on the university campus was just mind blowing.
  :)   Anyway the birthday of Atari was featured in the Stars and Stripes newspaper here in the U.S. Armed Forces. Was really cool seeing that mentioned.

Hi,

Because ATARI is still co-directed by Nolan Bushnell, and the firm is now designing games for the smartphones, they made a gift of a hundred iPod/iPhone/iPad original games for free. That's really cool, indeed !

That's an anniversary for all of us :-)

Dear All,

I Have just receive from my friend this scanner (AGFA DUO Scan T1200), this is a SCSI scanner.
I have a question for users of the scanner, whether it will be properly worked with the Atari, I have the possibility of connecting it to TT or Falcon. For now, I noticed that when you boot your machine is detected, which program would be best to scan and the scanner handle?

Best regards
Piotr

There is a nice scanning program called Scanx by Homa Systems House, but to my knowledge it only supports UMAX and Microtek SCSI scanners.

Hope it works out!

Description:
Exclusive TV SCART Cable (RGB+Audio) compatible with Atari ST/STE/STF systems.

It will work flawlessly with the majority of the available TVs, including both CRT o LCD ones, granting the best available video quality out of the above mentioned machines.

Superb quality of picture and great audio sound, this Cable includes internal ehnancements which expand its working range even to the most modern LCD TV Sets.

Compatibility List:
STE, STF, 520STF, STFM, 1040ST & MEGAST

Hi,

This is a VNC server for Atari tested on Falcon/CT60/CTPCI/Radeon and Firebee (need 65K or 16M colors):

http://perso.wanadoo.fr/didierm/files/avncserv.tgz

Compiled for 68020-60 and mcfv4e.

For more info see readme.txt.

Regards,

Didier

The ATARI bookmarks page <http://eureka.atari.org/atari.html> was updated. The goal consists in valid links, even if it corresponds to sometimes dated information. Part of these bookmarks persist since the creation of the WEB site, back to the year 1996.

The interest with those numerous bookmarks, there's about 800, is to constitute an ATARI uptodate and dedicated search engine of the online scene. It is a service provided by Google Co-op. The base of this engine is a collection composed from time to time. It's now quite consistent.

This is a WEB 2.0 experience, because even if I'm responsible for its creation, the ATARI Search Engine can possibly be integrated by ATARI webmasters adding its HTML code.

Have a good ATARI WEB Surfing =3D)

Hi,

I need your help to fill my tests!

I wrote a Super PI program in assembler, you'll find it on my page (TEST 1)

http://gtello.pagesperso-orange.fr/kronos_soft.htm

Just run it and send me back the infos to add some lines to my table.
We'll keep the 16384 digits calculation as a base.

Thanks to everyone!

(you need a 68030 or better).

Guillaume.

Come one, come all, to the Seattle Retro-Computing Society's regular monthly meeting! It will be held Saturday, February 25th from 11:30 AM to 5:00 PM (please note our new, later starting time).

Do you do any of the following with old computers? Will you be near Seattle on Saturday?

- Use, collect, and/or restore them
- Play games on them

+ Write programs for them
+ Develop new hardware for them
+ Help other people do any of the above

If your answer was "yes," then the SRCS is for you! We exist so you can show off your awesome stuff, bounce ideas off of fellow enthusiasts, and be inspired by one another's achievements, plans and aspirations.

No idea is too big or too small, and we're not picky about what flavor of vintage machine you prefer! Come on down and tell us about it!

The meetings are graciously hosted by the Living Computer Museum, which is gradually fitting out a computer museum in Seattle's SODO neighborhood. There will be refreshments, a Buy-Sell-Free-Trade table, and enough table space & power to set up anything you may want to show off!

For further details, please see our web page at http://www.seattleretrocomputing.com/ and our mailing list at http://groups.google.com/group/seattle-retrocomp . Hope to see you there!

Gordon "gsteemso" Steemson
SRCS agitator-in-chief

Ho, thanks ! The WEB site misses a "welcome.htm" file or should it be called ".html" ? Anyway, something changed.
The WEB server's may have been modified, or the WEB files.

I will notice.

Regards,

It is a Limited Edition, made to get rid of the heavy and unregulated original Atari 2600 AC/DC Adaptor. Also compatible with an unexpanded Sinclair ZX-81 as they shares the same connector and the same polarity.

Link:
170789968141 (eBay)

Specifications:
. 9VDC @ 500mA
. OVP (Overvoltage Protection)
. Highly Filtered SMPS
. 110~220V Universal

Used for five hours in order to fully test its functionality.

Cheers,
Oge

Hello,

I have improved my ColorSTE, changed the name as it works now in mono and not only on the STE (but on the ST and Mega ST).

In every resolution you get a new set of 12 icons, a sound at startup (DMA or Yamaha).

In ST LOW, the menu bar, icons and windows are colored !

Everything is on my page:

http://gtello.pagesperso-orange.fr/colorste.htm

Guillaume.

ST DESK is ready to work with the backgrounds in every resolution. You can download it.
I'd like to have some testers for TOS<1.6 (1.4, 1.2, 1.0).
Please help !!

Hi. I had a question about upgrading my Atari 1040STE computer. I currently= have 4 MB of RAM in it and a 16 MHz CPU (standard CPU, of course, for this= type of Atari ST). I wanted to know how I could find a way to beef up the = RAM, see how I could integrate a high-end graphics cards for it and find a = way to improve the speed of the computer overall. I know the STE I have can= address a RAM clock speed of 16 MHz, but was wondering how much RAM can re= ally be installed in an 1040STE.

I also downloaded how to build the ET4000 graphics card off of the Atari ST= Hardware Hacks website by Marcello "Vezz" Vezzelli, but I am wondering. Ca= n an STE can be fitted with a more advanced card than that, as well as cert= ain expansion slots (like PCI and AGP) to improve expandability? Is there s= omething similar to a CT60 for the ST to upgrade the CPU? If not, can it ev= er be developed somehow? There must=20 be a way to integrate the technologies together. If not now, perhaps in the= future.

Any advice is duly appreciated. Thanks.

     With the 24 bits of the address bus, it is 16MB max.
     But some addresses are reserved for ROM and peripherials.
     If you stop at $E0.0000 (start of ROM in the STE), then you have 14MB.

There must > be a way to integrate the technologies together. If not now, perhaps in the

     The problem you'll have with every standard PC card is that the encoding of the pixels is not the same as in the STE.
     So, all off the low graphic routines of the VDI (particularly the LineA) must be rewritten to fit the card specifications.

     This is a tremendous work..! (put/get pixel, draw line, draw rectangle, fill rectangle, fill polygon, write text, blitblock, etc...).

     Else, there is a card for the ST that replaces the 68000 with a 68030, the PAK/3. But hard to find...

     Guillaume.

Come one, come all, to the Seattle Retro-Computing Society's regular monthly meeting! It will be held Saturday, March 24th from 11:30 AM to 5:00 PM (please note our new starting time, which is an hour later than it was last year).

Please read the important announcement about our website at the end of this message!

Do you do any of the following with old computers? Will you be near Seattle on Saturday?

+ Use, collect, and/or restore them
+ Play games on them
+ Write programs for them
+ Develop new hardware for them
+ Help other people do any of the above

If your answer was "yes," then the SRCS is for you! We exist so you can show off your awesome stuff, bounce ideas off of fellow enthusiasts, and be inspired by one another's achievements, plans and aspirations.

No idea is too big or too small, and we're not picky about what flavor of vintage machine you prefer! Come on down and tell us about it!

The meetings are graciously hosted by the Living Computer Museum, which is gradually fitting out a computer museum in Seattle's SODO neighborhood. There will be refreshments, a Buy-Sell-Free-Trade table, and enough table space & power to set up anything you may want to show off!

For further details, please see our web page at http://www.seattleretrocomputing.com/ and our mailing list at http://groups.google.com/group/seattle-retrocomp . Hope to see you there!

We are pleased to announce that the feature on our website which says who is coming, what they mean to bring, and what they hope someone else will bring has been de-zombied. We formerly had trouble with it not resetting after the meetings each month, so no one could rely on anything they saw there unless it happened to contain a date.

Well, it now works properly (AND says when you're coming even if you don't say you'll bring anything!) -- but since everyone kind of gave up on it over the last few months, as I write this only three people have filled it out for the coming meeting. Please take a moment to fill in your RSVP for March!

I Have Software I Need Help With! It's A Utility That Converts .ATR Files To .XFD Files! .ATR And .XFD Are Executable Files That Run On Emulators That Run As Executable Software On Emulators For The Atari 8 Bit!I Run This On My Atari Mega ST4! The Software I Need Help With Has Little Documentation So I Can Only Guess What Commands To Enter To Convert *.ATR To *.XFD! The Software Is A TOS Take Parameters File Or *.TTP!Does Anyone Know What Commands To Enter Into The Command Line?Does Someone Have The Instructions? Maybe You Can Download It And Figure It Out And E-Mail Me With Help? The Archive File Is ATR2XFD.ZIP!You Can Download It At: http://www.aracnet.com/~atari/ftp

I guess this command line TOS program (TTP) does not have any sophisticated options. Just try to give 2 parameters, first is an ATR image filename, second is a XFD image filename.

Hi,

ARAnyM <http://aranym.org/> is the GNU/GPL ATARI Virtual Machine
from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is modified with the new release of ARAnyM v0.9.13. It supports :

`Run_win` allows launching on PC with Windows
`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with OSX
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with OSX
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh-PC-PlayStation3 are all supported with Windows,
Mac OSX and GNU/Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is running on any machine.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

Hi,

The spacebar on my Mega ST keyboard sticks sometimes on the left side. I took it apart to clean it and of course noticed that it only has a single centre-mounted spring. Cleaning helped but the issue is still there so I was thinking about adding a spring on the left and right sides. Has anyone done this?

Regards,
Doug

Hi Doug. It's not just the Mega's - every ST keyboard I've took apart has only had a single in there. I've not had my STacy's keyboard apart though.

Whenever I've used the "TT Touch" keyboard upgrade from Best Electronics, I always fill out the space bar on regular ST's. Makes it much more stable IMHO.

I'd say with springs, go for it - you can always take them back out if you don't like the way it feels or it just won't work.

As far as I can tell, the power supply on the Mega ST4 that runs my BBS is out.

I'll order a new one from Best Electronics, but the BBS will probably be down for a few days...

Apologies!

Computer Legend and Gaming Pioneer Jack Tramiel Dies at Age 83 http://www.forbes.com/sites/davidthier/2012/04/09/computer-legend-and-gamingpioneer-jack-tramiel-dies-at-age-83/

Jack Tramiel, founder of Commodore International and crucial figure in the early history of video games, died passed away surrounded by his family on Sunday, his family confirms. He was 83 years old.

Hello,

I'm releasing GEMClip version 1.01

This is a very small update to version 1.0, that fixes one bug that made the accessory non-functional under MagiC. So if the program works for you, you don't need to update, nothing else has changed.

Thanks to Peter A. West who reported the issue and helped debug it.

Presentation page:
http://www.gemdict.org/gemclip

Download page:

Cheers,
JFL

Hello.

There is an article about the MiNT cross tools internals (binutils and GCC) in the online magazine Software Developer's Journal Extra 02/12(4).
You can get it for free on my website:

Many thanks, and greetings for this beautiful publication. I'm on the way of building my softwares with these cross-developing tools. This is hard work (10 years !), but very useful job for developers like me.

Keep going !

I have one, and maybe 2, falcons for sale.

1 is mounted in a DeskTopper case, with a 3gb hard drive, and 14mb memory.

The second one is being repaired. If it cannot be repaired, then I will sell the parts.

Anyone, in North America, interested, drop me an email with any questions you may have.

Thanks!

Hi everyone,

I have some great news from Mountain Software. I contacted them about registering Mountain Reader II and Anthony Watson wrote back sending me an attachment with an unlocked copy of all his ST software. Naturally I then asked him if he'd mind if I shared it with the Atari community. Here is his reply:

Quote

Sure, that would be fine. Just understand I am no longer supporting those applications, though I would still enjoy hearing from anyone who uses them. I would also appreciate if you could include links to my current web sites:

www.mountain-software.com

Unquote

So I have done as he asked here and in FILE_ID.DIZ files. The programs have been uploaded to my bbs (Files->Atari ST->Communications and Applications) and the Darkforce bbs (Files->Telecommunications and General). You don't need to register an account with my bbs to download the files (not sure about Darkforce). Telnet to theville.vintagecomputing.net or darkforce-bbs.dyndns.org

Mountain Reader II is in the file m_reader.zip

The Recipe Box is in the file recipe.zip

Mountain Software Shareware Bundle is in the file bundle.zip and contains the following programs:

TUZZLE.TOS NUMBERS.TOS
EZ_MONEY.TOS
MTN_VIEW.TOS

MANUAL.TOS PEN_PAL.TOS
EZ_BASE.TOS
EASY_GO.TOS

If you re-distribute these files please respect Anthony Watson's wishes and include the quote and links. On behalf of the Atari community I want to publicly thank Mr. Watson for sharing his work with us. It is always greatly appreciated when an author from the glory days of the ST shares their software with current Atari faithful.

Regards,
Doug

Please, what is the structure of a .ST file emulating an Atari ST floppy disk?

It gets 738.260 B versus 726.016 on the FD.
Thanks

A standard floopy has:
80 tracks with 9 sectors of 512 bytes on each side, so it is a total of:
80*9*2*512 = 737 280 bytes.

Some sectors are reserved for boot + FAT, so you only get 726 016 bytes available for storage.

738260 - 737280 = 980 bytes added.
Well, I can't say more in this organisation of those 980 bytes.

Guillaume.

Hi Doug. Thanks for uploading that to DarkForce. I've validated both files and they are available to callers for downloading. They are in

It's similar to MS-DOS formatted floppy disks.
You have a boot sector (512 Bytes), which is always not usable for data.
And you have some File Allocation Table sectors, and last but not least a few sectors for directory entries.
How many sectors are used for FAT and Directory Entries is set by some bytes/numbers in the mentioned boot sector.

So this is no rocket science.

It is not sure, but very few problems can occur in my opinion:

* the ROM address has changed between STF and STE, so programs that use direct addressing (to read the ROM header for example) will hang.

* the same for joystick informations, the addresses have changed and if you address them directly, you won't get the expected informations.

I remember that the STOS games had a table included that gave access to addresses according to the TOS version. Even with an old STOS game, you could edit this table to add your own informations, that's how I made some games run on the TT long time ago.
I remember that then, a program was made to automatize this operation.

Guillaume.

Mostly. Incompatibility isn't usually from the STe itself, but a higher TOS version or more memory.

There are a couple of utilities that let you soft-boot an older version of TOS and fake 1 meg of memory even with a 2-4 meg machine.

That usually takes care of most problems. Also, check Klaz's site and Dbugs sites - they are constantly releasing "adjusted" software titles that take advantage of newer TOS versions, more memory and will run from hard drive!

I believe that there are two copies of the FAT table, in case one becomes corrupted.

Hi. My question is this. Is the Atari ST web browser Highwire still in deve= nt since June 2010, when the last development snapshot had been posted. Can= anyone give me information concerning this? Thanks.

Hello,

I have two scanners: Astra UMAX 610s and 1220s and the corresponding driver for those SCSI units.
But, I'm wondering if they work on a 1040... I use them with an Atari TT on the SCSI port.

Anyway, you'll surely need an adapter because no SCSI is available on the ST.

Has anyone the answer?

Guillaume.

The actual WEB browser that is developed for ATARI is Netsurf

      <http://nic-nac-project.org/~monokrom/geeklog/>

I'm not quite sure that a 1040STe is convenient.

Well, since there hasn't been any activity for about 2 years I guess it's fair to say the project is as good as dead. Fortunately the source code is available, so it can help other projects indirectly. A free project never really dies, in a way.

Cheers,
JFL

To be honest, I'm not even sure Highwire would be usable on a 1040, if it really only has 1Mb RAM. I would suggest CAB, which is slower but known to work even on very low end Ataris.

Just wanted to let you guys know that I recently put one of my more prized pieces of hardware up for auction.  Includes the mint condition TT030 with plenty of upgrades and a couple essential peripherals.  If you have any interest in such things, you might take a look. :)

Just received a 1040 I bought on ebay. It appears to be working just fine, so far as I can tell.

The floppy eject button doesn't, but otherwise the drive works. Keyboard is missing the 3 key...anyone got a spare they can send to me.

I got the ST pretty much just for gaming. I've got a couple Falcons that I'll be selling....... for the purpose of buying a Firebee. :)

What are you alls suggestions for a pair of joysticks?

Thanks!!

That's unbelievable... you got $2025 for an Atari TT ?
In germany, one per month is sold via Ebay, the most expensive was Euro 400 (but you can get a working one for less than Euro 200 most of the time).

Apparently a couple retro folks wanted it pretty bad.  And they're tough to come by over here in the States.

hi everyone!

since the retro development seems to be really active, at least for zx-spectrum, msx, c64, etc. (these first two with contests like csscgc or msxdev), would be great seeing how far is the activity on Atari ST, specially from development tools like Stos, or specially those cross-development tools (like Boriel's zx-basic compiler, for zx-spectrum) where from can we know how far is this activity, and what should we do for keeping it alive? (like development contests like csscgc or msxdev, diskmags, demos, etc.)

thanks and cheers,
Paulo

The 520ST Is Very Common!My First ST Was A 1040 But Later, I Had Toad Computer Take A 520ST, Upgrade The RAM To 4 Megs Of SIMMs, I Think It Was A JRI Board, Upgrade The Keyboard And Modify It So It Has TOS v.1.0 And v.1.4 On A Switch! I Used It To Run My BBS! I Especially Liked That The Disk Drives And Power Supplies Are External! I Still Have That 520ST And My Old BBS Software And I'm Considering Putting It Back Up Again! Thanx! =-=Ben=-=

1) Friendly, honest, helpful and fast with service! 2) Very Knowlegeable of Atari products & skilled at helping customers choose the items that best meet their needs. 3) The inventory changes regularly and often there are many hard to find items that are unavailable anywhere else. 4) Prices are usually less than on auction sites. 5) Very huge and alphabetically sorted lists of Atari items (OLD and NEW). 6) Ordering is very easy, no dozens of clicks on several HTML pages, just read and then copy+paste the ASCII text into your e-mail to order anything. 7) I avoid making promises I cant keep! 8) Ben's Benevolent 24 Hour Help HotLine And Voice Mail! Call Any Time, Any Day!If I Dont Answer, I'll Call You Back, Even Long Distance! Just Leave A Message With Your Phone Number & Best Times To Call Within Pacific Standard Time (PST) And I'll Call You Back! And Remember, If You Dont Leave A Message, I Cant Return Your Call!

Questions? You can E-Mail me or ask other Atari Users. You probably know 1 or 2 who bought from me. Quite a few have over the Years! (503)256-9974.

Yes, there is on the UK market e.g., but it's darn expensive (as it also includes a DVD player):

Come one, come all, to the Seattle Retro-Computing Society's monthly meeting, on Saturday, November 26th, 2011! You don't want to miss this one -- it's our last meeting until January 2012.

Do you do any of the following with old computers near Seattle?

+ Use, collect, and/or restore them

- Play games on them
- Write programs for them
- Develop new hardware for them
- Help other people do any of the above

If your answer was "yes," as I expect it will be if you're reading this near Seattle, then the SRCS is for you! We exist so you can show off your awesome stuff, bounce ideas off of fellow enthusiasts, and be inspired by one another's achievements, plans and aspirations.

No idea is too big or too small, and we're not picky about what flavor of vintage machine you prefer! Come on down and tell us about it!

Please note that, as it would fall on Christmas Eve and no one would attend, we will not be meeting in December. If you miss this meeting, you won't get to see everyone (and their nifty stuff) again until January.

The meetings are graciously hosted by the Living Computer Museum, which is gradually fitting out a computer museum in Seattle's SODO neighborhood. There will be refreshments, a Buy-Sell-Free-Trade table, and enough table space & power to set up anything you may want to show off!

For further details, please see our web page at http://www.seattleretrocomputing.com/ and our mailing list at http://groups.google.com/group/seattle-retrocomp . Hope to see you there!

Gordon "gsteemso" Steemson
SRCS agitator-in-chief

There is a new version available on my home page (see sig)

Changes:

november 28 2011
v4.8
   Compiler:
     Fix a crash that sometimes could occur when a local initializer was absent or was wrong.
     Fix a crash when a while expression is wrong or absent.
     Allow {} around any local initializer.

     Deny arrays of void.
     Deny returning of arrays.

     Fixed a regression since 4.7 leading to incorrect code in rare situations.

     Fix a error preventing floating constants of the form:
       nE-n from compiling correctly.

     Coldfire:
     Fix incorrect code when a temporary was needed from a memory location.

   Library:
     Fixed a leftover from Sozobon, where a floating point integral part could not exceed |2^31|.

     Changed v_pie --> v_pieslice

Have fun

Hello Henk,

I hope "Deny arrays of void." does not included array of void functions, or more precise arrays of pointers to functions with no return value.

Sometimes such function pointers can be very handy.

Best regards and thanks for your great work on AHCC!
Matthias

Hi Matthias.
Good question.

I discovered that denying of arrays of void was absent through a typo:

I think you will like this. :-)

Someone tried to define just an array of pointers to void functions.
It was wrong in a funny way.

void (*draw)(void)[] = foobar;

It should have been:

void (*draw[])(void) = foobar;

The first is: pointer to function returning array of void.
Two errors that are now properly denied.

The second one is OK as it was intended:
array of pointers to functions returning void.

That always has worked correctly.

Satisfied? :-)

C can sometimes look weird.

Hi Peter
I've had great success with Seagate drives, specifically ST51080N. Loads of room and really quick.

Mark.

"Peter Dassow" wrote in message news:4ebe9685$0$6642$9b4e6d93@newsspool2.arcor-online.net...

Hi,

after several unsuccessful tries, I am clueless.
My Mega STE worked flawlessly with his ST157N, but it's one of the smallest HD you can find (no more space now for anything).
So I tried it with a IBM DORS 32160 (SCA version, but I used an adapter to SCSI-50pin). I didn't hear even the HD drive/motor (may be this drive was already dead).
Now I buyed a IBM 0662 drive (1.0 GB SCSI, 50pin).
Because this beast have the maximum of jumper for configuration you can imagine, I made an excerpt from the manual and upload it to my site.
You can take a look at it here: http://www.z80.eu/images/ibm0662.png
The red jumpers are my assumption what is necessary.
For the Mega STE, some told me, I should NOT use "active termination".
For classic ST's, this would be different (e.g. for MegaFile's).
At the moment, it does not work, HDDriver (or CBHD or AHDI 6) does not recognize any drive except my also external connected Syquest 555 drive.

I am not aware of the sense of "Disable UNIT attention" here, also of the jumper "Disable T.I.Sync Negotiations".
Also, I am not sure about "SCSI bus termination power" and the additional "Termination Power enable" jumper (which should be related with the "Enable Active Termination" jumper.

Any help (Mega STE specific) ?

Regards
Peter

I recently picked up a used PAK 68/3 from Ebay. It did not come with any manuals or instructions. I was wondering if anyone could tell me where I could find English manuals or instructions and schematics. I've got a PDF but it is all in German. Also, is it possible to still get the FRAK board?

Thank you.

Greetings everyone!

Lets start the Holidays off right!

At this time, The DarkForce BBS is resuming its monthly prize giveaway.

December 2011:
1. Atariuser Magazine - some lucky Atari caller will win a free 12 issue/1 year subscription to this great magazine (PDF).

Just telnet to "darkforce-bbs.dyndns.org"

The BBS software will automatically log your call, but please go into the prize section and confirm that you want to be placed into the random drawing.

Good luck to this months callers!

PS Note that the winner will have to provide a valid e-mail address for prize delivery.

Hi

Looking for some Atari Falcon 030 Hardware and Software.

I'm mostly interested in Music and Highend Graphics hardware software.

Some of Want List
TRAK COM
Other Various D2D Falcon Software
CUBASE FDI Hardware
ScreenEYE Digitiser
Expose Digitiser

Have some of this for sale, then e-mail me asking price, I will purchase from overseas.
Also, Have other Falcon related hardware software?   Just send me a list with asking price.

thanks,

Barry

Hello Henk,

indeed satisfied. I just wanted to make sure that this useful feature is working properly with AHCC.

BTW does AHCC support inlining of C functions with the keyword inline?

cheers,
Matthias

Hi,

I'm an Atarian, and I'd like to wish a Merry Christmas & Happy New Year.
So, I made a kick video, rendered with Persistence Of Vision, hereafter

     <http://eureka.atari.org/walking.mov>

It's a PacMan dancing around a Christmas Tree. The character is modelled in 3D2 with 3D Studio from Tom Hudson and exported with 3D2POV from Bill Devonshire on ATARI. The tree is exported from Eureka 2.12, my software.

And remembering that 2012 is the New Year coming soon, this animation with the PacMan tune, celebrates the "2.12". Isn't POV-Ray originally written from DKBTrace 2.12, indeed ? This is a sign of the times :-)

I wish the best to you all.

ATARIstically yours =3D)

Folks, for the moment, the DarkForce BBS is offline.

I'm now sure what's going on. I've been working on it for the last 3 hours with no success. The board is up and running. I can logon locally at the Mega ST itself.
I can logon to the BBS from any machine on my local LAN. I can not logon from any outside source.
I rebooted everything, cablemodem, router, Mega ST.

I logged into dyndns.org and checked my account there
They are showing my current IP address. So the daemon
I use on my Kubuntu box is working. I called Suddenlink and asked them if they had added any ports to those they already block. Nope. Port 23 is still open. I logged onto my UDS1100. All settings look normal. I logged on to my Router, checked the port forwarding - it all looks like its supposed to, all port 23 requests are forwarded to the UDS1100/Mega ST's LAN address of 192.168.0.104.

I can ping that address, no problems there.

So at this point I'm scratching my head...

I'll keep working on it and will let everyone know if/when its back up.

Sorry for any inconvenience!

Okay, I finally managed to squeeze enough time in to replace our old Dlink router with a new Linksys.

I just used a remote access terminal and I was able to logon to DarkForce okay.

Everyone just lemme know if you have any more problems. Keeping my fingers crossed that this was it.

Really odd - the Dlink was working in every single aspect, except that it was apparently failing to forward any ip address requests.

Thanks! :)

PS Now I'm off to the mall with my wife.... the fun just never ends. :D

Hi,

I've recorded a little tutorial for MP_STE, you can access it through my page:

http://gtello.pagesperso-orange.fr/mpste_e.htm

Guilolaume.

Hello,

I'm releasing the first version of GEMClip, a clipboard manager for FreeMiNT and MagiC. See here for a presentation of the program:
http://www.gemdict.org/gemclip

Or directly here for the download page:
http://www.gemdict.org/gemclip/download

Or here for some nifty screenshots:
http://www.gemdict.org/gemclip/screenshots

Cheers,
JFL

Hi,

I'm looking for a Sound Pool FDI unit to go with my Analog 8 Unit so that I can use it with Cubase Audio Falcon and Zero X.

Also, does anyone know if the Analog 8 can be used on the Falcon without having the FDI unit??

IF so, I sure could use the info on how to do it. I was thinking that maybe it would work
if one had the right cables.

I have the Analog 8 unit and a Cubase Audio DSP clock. Need to use the Clock with the Analog 8 unit. I don't want the FDI unit unless there is no other way to use the Analog 8/clock.

However, if I can get a FDI unit for a fair price then I will purchase it.

Any info much appreciated

The ATARI bookmarks page <http://eureka.atari.org/atari.html> was updated. The goal consists in valid links, even if it corresponds to sometimes dated information. Part of these bookmarks persist since the creation of the WEB site, back to the year 1996.

The interest with those numerous bookmarks, there's about 600, is to constitute an ATARI uptodate and dedicated search engine of the online scene. It is a service provided by Google Co-op. The base of this engine is a collection composed from time to time. It's now quite consistent.

This is a WEB 2.0 experience, because even if I'm responsible for its creation, the ATARI Search Engine can possibly be integrated by ATARI webmasters adding the HTML code

Hi,

after I tried several times to get a SCSI DCAS 34330 drive up and running with my Mega STE (without success), I expirienced a non-working second (external) SF-314 floppy and also the original Seagate ST157N can't be accessed after rebuilding the original hardware configuration.
Surprisingly the internal floppy drive works well, and the computer shows the GEM desktop as usual.
If the DMA chip died, I guess the internal floppy drive would not work, too. So it's a mystery for me what can be defect... may be I have moved the little ACSI pcb also a bit (because of the short SCSI cable), but at the moment I am totally unsure where to look first.
Any hints for a smart repair ?

Regards
  Peter

Hi Peter. Have you tried using these drives with other Atari machines, just to verify that they are working?

Would go a long ways towards trouble-shooting your problem. At least, you could rule out the drives being bad, and then concentrate on the Mega STe itself.

I once had a similar problem.

The flat cables for the floppy and hard disk where nearly dead, I think that when opening the machine, removing them, plugging, unplugging etc, I must have cut it because it was too old. SO when rebuilding the machine, nothing was working anymore.

I solved the problem with new flat cables.

Guillaume.

This would be a good idea (to narrow it), unfortunately I have no other
"ST" machine here.
Is there a block schematic diagram of all important STe chips out there

Happy New Year 2012,

ARAnyM v0.9.11 <http://aranym.org/> is the ATARI Virtual Machine
from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is updated for Mac OS X Lion compatibility (10.7). It supports :

`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with Mac OS X
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with Mac OS X
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh - PC - PlayStation 3 are all supported with both Mac OS X and GNU / Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is entirely based on Unices.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

Hi,

Do you know that Nolan Bushnell, the ATARI's company funder has a personal homepage <http://nolanbushnell.com/> ? The WEB site will probably extend rapidly. It is for the moment rather embryonic. And here is a video <http://youtu.be/0Uy3HmnZaXI> where he is given a prize.

ATARIstically yours =3D)

I recently read this and was thinking Apple becomes a pioneer company for the respect of the planet :
http://www.newzilla.net/2011/12/10/green-it-mothership-le-futur-siege-d%E2%80%99apple-fonctionnera-au-photovoltaique/
This tells that the futur HQ will have all the roofs with SOLAR PANEL for green electricity : nice.. ?

And after my Friend Thierry (living in USA) sent me this :
http://www.ipe.org.cn/Upload/Report-IT-V-Apple-II.pdf.

OK, 2 years ago Greepeace Pointed Apple as very a bad company (like DELL), for environmental things.
Now this is a second confirmation with a complet & serious investigation (congratulation to the guys who did this).
Read especially page 23, 28 & 42 if no time to read all.
They kill many people in China with very bad suppliers that polluate massively the waters with heavy metals (PCB manufacturing by example).

To resume between the 2 links :
APPLE is doing massive money by killing people and destroying the planet with the great help of YOUR money, stupid guys you may be !
And to sleep everybody they will contruct a nice HQ with solar panels !

I have never bought Apple product and I will never buy for sure now !

It was slow, but it loads up for me.

Ultrasatan you mean?

Zaxon makes those still, I reckon. He's in this message thread at Atariage (and he's at AtariForum as well I think):

http://www.atariage.com/forums/topic/160486-ultrasatan-next-20-batch-preorder/page__st__75

and here is a direct link:

My advice is to get in touch with him directly before ordering.

Just for info, Jookie's site is still up:

Hi,

I may be the only one with such a config, but here is the modified software to use the Supercharger PC XT emulator on a Mega STE with the AlberTT graphic card.

You can find it here:

I'm Looking for an Atari Mega ST4. Please, no upgraded Mega 2's. I need a stock 4 MB Machine Plus a TOS 1.4 upgrade would be nice. Preferably the 6 Chip TOS set as laid out on the MotherBoard. The case needs to be unaltered, not cut up to replace a drive with an incompatible eject button. Please direct All replies via E-Mail to Atari@aracnet.com or call Ben anytime (503)256-9974.

I need to keep this Within the U.S. as far as this Mega ST goes.

Why insist on a Mega ST4? Why not a Mega ST2 upgraded to 4 Megs?. Answer: I had a Mega 2 upgraded to 4 Megs. The upgrade failed & I don't want that again. I don't care if Jack Tramiel himself upgraded it and Guaranteed it. I want the Mega to come that way from the factory. I don't trust most other peoples tech work. I'd rather have the RAM put in at the Factory.

It was slow, but it loads up for me.

Ultrasatan you mean?

Zaxon makes those still, I reckon. He's in this message thread at Atariage (and he's at AtariForum as well I think):

http://www.atariage.com/forums/topic/160486-ultrasatan-next-20-batch-preorder/page__st__75

and here is a direct link:

http://www.zaxon.eu/usatan.html

My advice is to get in touch with him directly before ordering.

Just for info, Jookie's site is still up:

Hi all,

I'm looking for Alexander Niemeyer, the author of "RIEMANN II" the algebraic program for Atari.

I want to get in touch with him because I patched his program to make it run on the Falcon/CT60. I'd like to put my version on my page and I need the authorization.

Does someone know where can he be?
Thanks to all,

Guillaume.

Hi,

ARAnyM v0.9.11 <http://aranym.org/> is the ATARI Virtual Machine
from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is updated with today's EmuTOS 0.8.6 beta, thanks to Vincent Rivi=E8re . It supports

`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with Mac OS X
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with Mac OS X
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh - PC - PlayStation 3 are all supported with both Mac OS X and GNU / Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is entirely based on Unices.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

I'm Looking for an Atari Mega ST4. Please, no upgraded Mega 2's. I need a stock 4 MB Machine Plus a TOS 1.4 upgrade would be nice. Preferably the 6 Chip TOS set as laid out on the MotherBoard. The case needs to be unaltered, not cut up to replace a drive with an incompatible eject button. Please direct All replies via E-Mail to Atari@aracnet.com or call Ben anytime (503)256-9974.

I need to keep this Within the U.S. as far as this Mega ST goes.

Why insist on a Mega ST4? Why not a Mega ST2 upgraded to 4 Megs?. Answer: I had a Mega 2 upgraded to 4 Megs. The upgrade failed & I don't want that again. I don't care if Jack Tramiel himself upgraded it and Guaranteed it. I want the Mega to come that way from the factory. I don't trust most other peoples tech work. I'd rather have the RAM put in at the Factory.

Thanks a lot.

The miniPack <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> was updated with HDDriver 8.41 from <http://www.seimet.de/atari/fr/hddriver.html> :-)

I do appreciate your brilliant work, since a long time.

Best regards,

Does Anyone Know Of An All Purpose Flat Panel TV/Monitor That Will Fit My Needs? With S-Video For My Atari Jaguar! I Can Also Use The S-Video For Chroma Luma With An Adapter For A Monitor For My Atari 8 Bit! Also Compsite Video For My Atari Jaguar And Atari 8 Bit! Stereo Sound For My Atari Jaguar! A Coax Connector For My Atari 2600/5200/7800, Jaguar & Cable TV! Plus A Hi Density DB15 VGA Connector With A 50-70 Hertz Sync Rate So I Can Use It As A MultiSync Monitor Acting As Both A Color And MonoChrome Monitor For My Atari ST With A Switch Box! Maybe Someone Could Point Me In The Right Direction With A Model And Manufacturer? Thanx! =-=Ben=-=

1) Friendly, honest, helpful and fast with service! 2) Very Knowlegeable of Atari products & skilled at helping customers choose the items that best meet their needs. 3) The inventory changes regularly and often there are many hard to find items that are unavailable anywhere else. 4) Prices are usually less than on auction sites. 5) Very huge and alphabetically sorted lists of Atari items (OLD and NEW). 6) Ordering is very easy, no dozens of clicks on several HTML pages, just read and then copy+paste the ASCII text into your e-mail to order anything. 7) I avoid making promises I cant keep! 8) Ben's Benevolent 24 Hour Help HotLine And Voice Mail! Call Any Time, Any Day!If I Dont Answer, I'll Call You Back, Even Long Distance! Just Leave A Message With Your Phone Number & Best Times To Call Within Pacific Standard Time (PST) And I'll Call You Back! And Remember, If You Dont Leave A Message, I Cant Return Your Call!

Questions? You can E-Mail me or ask other Atari Users. You probably know 1 or 2 who bought from me. Quite a few have over the Years! (503)256-9974.

Hi,

ARAnyM v0.9.11 <http://aranym.org/> is the ATARI Virtual Machine
from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is updated with EmuTOS 0.8.6, thanks to Vincent Rivi=E8re . It supports

`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with Mac OS X
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with Mac OS X
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh - PC - PlayStation 3 are all supported with both Mac OS X and GNU / Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is entirely based on Unices.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

Hi,

miniPack <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> was updated with zView beta 8 <http://sourceforge.net/projects/z-tools/> in a 68030+68881 build, thanks to the work of Miro Krop=C3=A1=C4=8Dek.

It really makes a difference, with speed and less bugs, indeed.

Please make your own opinion =3D)

Regards,

Hi,

after several unsuccessful tries, I am clueless.
My Mega STE worked flawlessly with his ST157N, but it's one of the smallest HD you can find (no more space now for anything).
So I tried it with a IBM DORS 32160 (SCA version, but I used an adapter to SCSI-50pin). I didn't hear even the HD drive/motor (may be this drive was already dead).
Now I buyed a IBM 0662 drive (1.0 GB SCSI, 50pin).
Because this beast have the maximum of jumper for configuration you can imagine, I made an excerpt from the manual and upload it to my site.
You can take a look at it here: http://www.z80.eu/images/ibm0662.png
The red jumpers are my assumption what is necessary.
For the Mega STE, some told me, I should NOT use "active termination".
For classic ST's, this would be different (e.g. for MegaFile's).
At the moment, it does not work, HDDriver (or CBHD or AHDI 6) does not recognize any drive except my also external connected Syquest 555 drive.

I am not aware of the sense of "Disable UNIT attention" here, also of the jumper "Disable T.I.Sync Negotiations".
Also, I am not sure about "SCSI bus termination power" and the additional "Termination Power enable" jumper (which should be related with the "Enable Active Termination" jumper.

Any help (Mega STE specific) ?

Regards
  Peter

This drive, like some other IBM drives, might require the computer to have a SCSI ID (initiator identification). If this is the case you can only use it with the full-featured SCSI bus of a TT or Falcon or with a LINK96/97 host adapter. These are the only host adapters for the ST/STE which support initiator identification (SCSI ID 7).

You should disable both. Enabling unit attention can prevent the Atari from booting from a drive. The synchroneous transfer negotiation is not supported by ACSI. Only with a TT or Falcon and a driver with support for SCSI messages (like HDDRIVER and maybe CBHD) it can be enabled, even though you would not be able to profit from it with the Atari.

But anyway, provided your drive is not broken the lack of initiator identification with ACSI ist most likely the problem.

As I had texactly this drive inside my TT030, I can confirm it does require the computer to have an SCSI ID. It did not boot in the TT030 with original ROM, one has to use a patched ROM, I used tp306v20.lzh and tospatch.ttp, both which can be found on

<http://markusheiden.de/index.php/atari/tospatch.html>

It seems I have again no luck (second time, because I tried a DORS 32160 already). May be no IBM drive can be used with a Mega STE and the build-in ASCI controller.
I have only set "disable parity" and "autostart", no SCSI-ID jumper set (that should result in a SCSI-ID = 0).
The drive is not recognized.
Why did I buyed an IBM HD ?
Because I read the recommendations at http://atari.mnx2010.nl/helpdesk/scsi/scsi.htm ...
This page is not related to a Mega STE, may be the list of "compatible" drives is totally wrong :-(

  Peter

At least it is outdated and it appears to be mainly meant for TT and Falcon. On the other hand, as far as TT and Falcon are concerned such a list is quite useless because you can use any SCSI-2/3 drive (except for the differential drives, which have a special signal handling) with them, i.e. there is no need for such a compatibility list.

Dear Peter,

Ask B & C ComputerVisions About This! The Mega STe Is Finicky About Hard Drives! I Dont Believe It Will Do SCSI 2 Internally! Maybe Externally With Another Hard Drive! I Asked B & C About This Before! I Prefer Another Host Adapter Than Atari!

The DCAS-34330 is easy to get and proven to work (some Mega STE owners at the E-Jagfest had it installed), although you can only use 1 gig of the 4 this drive provides.

Also, I had no problems with a Quantum LPS270S in my TT030.

HTH,

Thorsten

LS

There is a new version available on my homepage (see sig)

I have included the A_... header files that belong to my experimentation with syntax. (not activated)

Changes:
november 14 2011
v4.7
   Compiler:
     Slight reduction of spurious error messages.

     Wrong code was generated when converting a real to unsigned long.
```

New header file stdbool.h
small fixes in compiler.h

Fixed a error when a input name is a filename only, no slashes.

Fixed a mistake with eliminating the false side of a expression of the form: constant ? x : y where the true side is a binary operation.

For Coldfire:
Small fix in the new code tables for Coldfire.
Affects long mul/div.

Cleanup of Coldfire code generator.
Intruduction of code table for assignment.
Many fixes in the code for Coldfire floating point.

In rare cases the optimizer must split a move.
If no registers are available a pusher is generated.
(Until now a message "no free reg" was displayed in stead.)
Fixed a bug in a table causing some registers to be kept alive forever, causing the above split.

Editor:
'_' is a alphanumeric character for bold display.

Kit: Replaced checkbox 'word' by 3 radiobuttons:
whole word word begin anywhere

Which makes it possible to find a string that is the beginning of a word. (e.g. prefixes).

Library:
gemf.lib
Fix a confusion in gemf.h
removed #define gl_apid _app
The 2 names have NOT the same meaning.

ahccgem.lib, ahccgemf.lib Fix in appl_init regarding returning of application identifier.

Have fun.

For sale, X3 Heavy Duty PSUs which will work with the following Atari machines:

. Atari 65XE
. Atari 130XE
. Atari 800XE

. Atari 600XL
. Atari 800XL

. Atari XE Game System

Being its amperage even far higher than the most power-hungry of the above Atari Home Computers, this Heavy Duty Power Supply will work flawlessy in every situation. This includes modded and/or expanded Atari machines.

I knew that Apple is not as "clean" as it wants people to think, but that seems to be quite scandalous (reached pg. 5).

Hi,

I was confirmed by the ARAnyM Devels Team with the present screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPackLion.png> that the last version of the miniPack <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> is compatible with Mac OS X Lion (10.7.2). There's two Mac applications in the miniPack :

`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with Mac OS X

This /Universal Binary/ version runs on PowerMac _and_ MacIntel with a version of the system going from 10.3.9 (Panther) to 10.7.2 (Lion). This is the "slow" version not including the Just In Time compiler (JITc), but that runs on PowerMac.

`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with Mac OS X

This version which includes Just In Time compiler (JITc) is "fast" but runs only on IntelMac. Concerning Mac OS X Lion (10.7) it is remarkable to say since the last announces, that `MacAranym JIT` runs in fullscreen mode, like all the applications of Lion would deserve to B-)

Your opinion is welcome !

I Have Abandoned All Hopes For The Ultra Satan Drive!!! The Main Advantage To The Ultra Satan Drive Is Virtually No Moving Parts! So It May Never Wear Out! But For Me, The Overwhelming Disadvantages: 1) Does Not Use SCSI Hard Drives! So I Cant Attach My SCSI Hard Drives,So I Cant Transfer My Files From My Hard Drives To The Secure Digital Drives! That Means I'll Have To Move My Files To The Ultra Satan Drive Using 3.5" Floppies!Disadvantage 2) Since I Cant Hookup SCSI Devices, I Cant Use My SCSI CD ROM, My SCSI CD Writer Or Even My SCSI Flat Bed Full Color Scanner!And For Me, The Last Disadvantage 3) All My Atari ST Computers Use TOS v.1.4 Operating System!Ultra Satan Needs A Newer Version Of TOS Than My TOS v.1.4 Or it May Lose Data!So For Now, I'm Sticking To My 1 GigaByte SCSI HardDrive,At Least Until The Bugs Are Worked Out For TOS v.1.4!

Ben, I use an Ultrasatan with TOS 1.04 on my STacy. I'm not aware of any data loss problems?

Can you provide links to what you are referring to? Thanks.

Not sure I understand.  I have my ste connected to the ultra satan, then to a link then to a cr/cw drive then to a zip drive.  I don't seem to have any trouble transfering files back and forth.

Ben, I'd go to AtariForum or AtariAge (or both) and post this problem in those places.

Lots of knowledgeable people there will try to help you.

Hi,

ARAnyM v0.9.11 <http://aranym.org/> is the ATARI Virtual Machine
from which a minimal configuration, the miniPack is distributed <http://eureka.atari.org/miniPack.zip> miniPack is updated because it now runs also with Windows (XP, Vista, Seven). It supports :

`Run_win` allows launching on PC with Windows
`MacAranym` allows launching on PPC Macintosh with Mac OS X
`MacAranym JIT` allows launching on IntelMac with Mac OS X
`run_x86.sh` allows launching on PC with x86-Linux
`run_ppc.sh` allows launching on Mac _and_ PS3 with PPC-Linux

So Macintosh - PC - PlayStation 3 are all supported with Windows, Mac OS X and GNU / Linux.

This simple ARAnyM configuration is running on any machine.
Here is a screenshot <http://eureka.atari.org/aranym.gif>

Enjoy, it's yours =3D)

And is not correct that TOS 1.04 may causing data loss. It will be rather age of your beloved Atari.

I've Data Mined The Info About The Data Corruption! I'm Sorry To Report I Was Wrong! Data Corruption Had To Do With Transfer Between DOS & TOS Formats!
The Information And The Link Are Directly Below!

http://joo.kie.sk/ultrasatan/faq.html

Question:

Do you have a preference for running UltraSatan with either (a) an Atari STE with (Tos 1.62/2.06) or (b) an STFM (Tos 1.4)?

Answer:

I would recommend using a machine with the newest TOS, so my choice would be

STE with TOS 2.06, or at least 1.62. Older TOS versions have trouble (or are unable) to access SD/MMC cards formated with TOS & DOS compatibility (for easy data transfer between PC and Atari), they are slower in hard-drive access and some have fatal bugs which cause the partition losses on hard-drives or data corruption.

There is a new version available on my home page (see sig)

Changes:

januari 24 2012
v4.9
Compiler:

Fixed a extremely stupid bug where comparisons of the kind 'constant compared to variable' were reversed wrongly.
e.g. (0 < i)

Fixed a terrible bug where under certain circumstances a ftst insstruction got lost.

Accept spurious ampersand to a function name to get a reference to that function.

There are FPU instruction that are NOT unary operaters.
These are: fmod, modf, ldexp and frexp.
Put these function in ahccstd.lib.

Fixed wrong code with comma expressions within expressions.

Coldfire:

Fix in the Coldfire Floating point code table.

Do not generate addressing mode 6 (An,Xn) with floating point instructions.

Do not generate FScc instructions.
Repaired wrong divide for pointer difference calculation.

Library:

stdio.c: function tmpfile added.
string.c: function strtoul added.

   stdlib.c: function system added.
   ahccstdf.lib
   Added support for missing FPU instructions on Coldfire.

If you aren't looking to download binaries then try nntp.aioe.org (see www.aioe.org for setup).  They are free.  I've been using them for my BBS newgroup feeds for years without issue.

That's pretty much general blah, even if is done by designer of UltraSatan self. Yes, TOS 1.04 is little slower, but you will hardly even notice 1% less speed. Fatal data bugs stay mostly for TOS 1.02 . And it is not like that they happen often. Actually, they happen only at some specific circumstances. By normal usage, when not opening too much files and folders even TOS 1.02 is reliable. But TOS 1.04 is much better. TOS 1.62 is in fact 99% same as 1.04 - it is just expanded with STE specific things. Filesystem part is same as in 1.04 ,   Actually, if you have some ST, Mega ST, you can not go simple on 2.06 - need additional logic for new TOS space. I have Mega ST and ST 1024 equipped with TOS switch and can use any TOS in range 1.00 - 2.06 (1.62 is STE only, so not it, but have STE with) . It is not true that TOS/DOS compatible partitioning works not with 1.04. It works. And myself made multipartition TOS/DOS compatible hard disk driver, etc.

TOS switch, with in circuit programming option (Flash ROM) :

The same here in Belgium. My provider (Telenet) doesn't offer news anymore.

Come one, come all, to the Seattle Retro-Computing Society's first monthly meeting of 2012! It will be held Saturday, January 28th from 11:30 AM to 5:00 PM (please note our new, later starting time).

Do you do any of the following with old computers? Will you be near Seattle on Saturday?

   + Use, collect, and/or restore them
   + Play games on them
   + Write programs for them
   + Develop new hardware for them
   + Help other people do any of the above

If your answer was "yes," then the SRCS is for you! We exist so you can show off your awesome stuff, bounce ideas off of fellow enthusiasts,
and
be inspired by one another's achievements, plans and aspirations.

No idea is too big or too small, and we're not picky about what flavor of vintage machine you prefer! Come on down and tell us about it!

The meetings are graciously hosted by the Living Computer Museum, which is gradually fitting out a computer museum in Seattle's SODO neighborhood. There will be refreshments, a Buy-Sell-Free-Trade table, and enough table space & power to set up anything you may want to show off!

For further details, please see our web page at http://www.seattleretrocomputing.com/ and our mailing list at http://groups.google.com/group/seattle-retrocomp . Hope to see you there!

ACP people have projects about interfacing the FireBee with TFT panels to build laptops.
